Chinese Juggernaut Rolls On; Allies Back Up in West Sector

Reds Capture Munsan, Stall in Central Korea

TOKYO, April 26 (Thursday) (AP). — Chinese Reds poured fresh troops into their Western Korea offensive today and forced new Allied withdrawals toward Seoul along a 30-mile sector.

The Communists captured Munsan, 21 miles northwest of Seoul. Munsan is ten miles south of the 38th parallel on a main highway to Seoul.

An overrun Allied unit was reported fighting its way out of a trap with the aid of tanks that made a rescue linkup. Details were lacking but a field dispatch reported the rescue effort was succeeding.

CANADIANS ESCAPE

Reuters News Agency in a Tokyo dispatch reported that the Canadian battalion fought its way out of a Red trap on the west-central sector Tuesday.

Reuters said the Canadian battalion, along with a Belgian unit, was cut off when the Chinese threw in heavy forces against a new Allied line south and southeast of Yonchon. There were no further details of the action.

The five-day Red offensive apparently had run out of steam in Central Korea. And everywhere the Reds were paying a terrific price.

They lost 7,095 men killed or wounded by ground action alone yesterday and 1,000 or more were cut down by Allied planes—boosting the Communist casualties well past 25,000 since the big offensive started Sunday.

NEARING SEOUL

Reinforced Reds pounded their way seven miles south of the 38th parallel in the west. That put them within 20 miles of Seoul, war-ravaged capital already being deserted by civilians.

In the mountainous centre, where the Reds had blasted a gaping hole, fresh Allied troops not only sealed it but dealt armored counter-punches.

Field dispatches today said there appeared to be no immediate threat of more Red breakthroughs anywhere across the 100-mile front.

The Allies were reported making planned withdrawals under cover of thunderous artillery barrages. This has been described by army oficers as "rolling with the punch" every day since the Reds first struck.

HEAVY LOSSES

Today's Eighth Army communique emphasized that heavy losses were being inflicted on the Reds everywhere the opposing forces were in contact.

But the Reds kept coming, heedless of losses. Five trains and 1,400 trucks were spotted rolling southward into the Red lines.

An estimated 18,000 Reds were killed in three days—to noon Wednesday—by Allied air and ground action.

A field dispatch said that possibly half of 33 Chinese Red divisions which struck in western Korea were badly mauled.

DRIVE HALTED

The Chinese assault on the central sector of the 100-mile front was checked four miles north of Kapyong. Kapyong, 33 miles northeast of Seoul, is on the paved Seoul-Chunchon highway—a main Allied supply artery.

A front-line officer expressed belief the Chinese vanguards of a 150,000-man force that made a central front breakthrough had been forced to stop and regroup after being "hurt very badly" Tuesday.

The Reds had driven a wedge into Allied lines in the area northwest of Chunchon. Chunchon is 12 miles northeast of Kapyong and eight air miles south of Parallel 38.

—AP Wirephoto Map.

United Nations forces, (solid arrows), facing continued Communist Spring offensive (open arrows), yesterday were retreating slowly through Munsan, north of Seoul (A). They had checked the assault in the central sector (B) north of Kapyong and sent tank and artillery units to blunt enemy's drive in the east (C), where Inje was retaken and the attack on Yanggu halted.

Allied Losses Light

By ROBERT LUNSON

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, April 26 (Thursday) (AP). — The United Nations forces in Korea are carrying out a successful retreat, and casualty figures prove it.

In the first two days of the Communist Spring offensive, which started Sunday night, less than 200 Allied soldiers were killed and less than 1,000 were wounded.

Yet in the West alone, United Nations artillery and planes covering the withdrawal have killed an estimated 15,000 Communists.

TOO BUSY

The figures may go even higher when all the results are in. One U.N. division is so busy killing Reds it has not taken time to send in its casualty count.

In the centre, where one U.N. division collapsed and let the Reds streak 20 miles south, there has been some grim fighting to save the exposed flanks. And the ones who really paid were the Chinese.

Artillery, catching them from both sides, laid down a gauntlet of steel that even fanatical Reds found hard to take.

The enemy push was contained Wednesday, and forces bolstering the shattered lines seem sure of holding the vital Seoul-Chunchon road.

AIM FOR ROAD

Capturing Kapyong and cutting the Seoul-Chunchon road was the Communist aim in the centre.

If the 150,000 troops they were pouring in here could get Kapyong they would be on a paved highway about 30 air miles northeast of Seoul.

The Reds were within four miles of Kapyong when their attack was stopped.

Council Trims Budget

By GORDON FORBES

Grinding away all day at the record 1951 budget, City Council yesterday managed to slice about $9,000 from estimated expenditures and add $13,000 to estimated revenue.

This is the equivalent of less than one-half a mill.

Another all-day meeting is scheduled for today.

Presented Tuesday, the provisional budget of $6,485,060 would require a 6.2-mill increase in the tax rate raising it to 58.2 mills.

Indications are Council will find it extremely difficult to bring about any substantial reduction in the provisional mill rate.

EXPENDITURES CUT

On the expenditure side, council cut $2,000 from office supplies, $1,000 from the legal department's budget, $550 from election expenses, $1,000 from City Hall building maintenance salaries, $1,000 from general maintenance, $1,000 from alterations and repairs and $2,445 from sundry items.

Increases in the estimated revenue are $5,000 from parking meters, $5,000 from motor licence fees and $3,000 from building, electrical and plumbing permit fee increases.

Council also: 1. Rejected a move from Alderman Robert MacMillan to reduce the size of the council or reduce council indemnities; 2. Decided against instituting a system of multiple polling stations this year; 3. Increased by 25 per cent building, electrical and plumbing permit fees; 4. decided to carry out a job evaluation.

Sunbathers See Fatal Air Crash

KEY WEST, Fla., April 25 (AP). —A big Cuban airliner and a small United States navy plane collided with explosive force over Key West today and spun into the sea, carrying 43 persons to their deaths.

Water splashed 50 feet into the air as the transport, with 34 passengers and five crew members, nose-dived into 20 feet of water.

The navy plane went to pieces as it crashed into the ocean two miles west of the transport. It carried a four-man crew.

Hundreds of sunbathers saw the planes meet at 4,000 feet altitude. Eyewitnesses at first believed the navy plane had blown up while flying alongside the liner.

The four-engined transport, operated by Compania Cubana de Aviacion, left Miami for Havana at 11:03 a.m. (E.S.T.), bound for Havana. The collision occurred about 11:45 a.m.

WINGS SHEARED OFF

George and Charles Faraldo, operators of a Key West flying service, said the left wing of the transport was sheared off opposite the outer engine.

At 11 p.m. (E.S.T.), the commander of the Coast Guard station here said 19 bodies had been recovered but only nine identified.

Coroner Ira F. Albury said he would hold an inquest when all bodies had been recovered.

The navy plane fell immediately after ramming the airliner, but the big plane staggered along on a level course about 50 seconds. In its nosedive, it headed directly toward a group of tourist cottages on the south beach. Then it veered to the left and dropped into the water 1,200 yards offshore.

Pan-American World Airways, with which Compania Cubana de Aviacion is affiliated, reported it was the first accident on the Cuban airline in more than 17 years of operation.

R.C.M.P. Alert For Smugglers

VANCOUVER, April 25 (CP). — R.C.M.P. increased their patrols along the Washington-B.C. border today in an effort to choke off the flow of bootleg American cigarettes.

R.C.M.P. officials said the move is part of a Canada-wide crackdown on the illegal traffic, following increase in the price of Canadian cigarettes, 41 cents for a pack of 20 in B.C.

(In Victoria, R.C.M.P. officials said such smuggling onto Vancouver Island had not yet become a problem.)

Cigarettes cost anywhere from 16 to 21 cents in the U.S.

Patton Tanks For Canadians

OTTAWA, April 25 (CP). — American-built Patton tanks manned by Canadian crews are expected to act as an armored shield for Canada's 25th Brigade when it goes into action in Korea, it was learned today.

An armored corps squadron now is en route to Korea by sea as part of the brigade and is expected to train with the Pattons—45-ton medium tanks — in Korea before taking them into action. The commander is Major J. W. Quinn of Saskatoon and Rosetown, Sask.

$150,000 Auction Price Promised for Property

A veteran Victoria auctioneer guaranteed yesterday to put vacant Prince Robert House "on the block"—and get the startling price of $150,000 for it.

The auctioneer, Philip B. Freeman, made the pledge in a letter to City Council yesterday in the wake of the council's split-vote decision to turn down what he termed a disgraceful $48,000 offer for the city-owned property.

The offer had been made by Ker & Stevenson Ltd. on behalf of the Cariwood Trading Company which represents the Woodward's Stores interests.

On a recorded vote the council's finance committee, consisting of Mayor Percy George and Aldermen William Pinfold, Frank Mulliner and Dr. J. D. Hunter, voted to accept the offer.

All other council members voted against the sale of the former hostel at the $48,000 figure.

FREE SERVICES

In his letter to the council the indignant auctioneer offered his services "gratis, absolutely free and without seeking favors" on a plan to offer Prince Robert House at public auction.

Mr. Freeman said the site alone was worth at least three times as much as the offered $48,000 "when out-of-the-way common building lots in other parts of Greater Victoria are selling for a thousand dollars and more."

"If this is the best your professional appraisers and land agents can do . . . try some more intelligent method of selling this property for a fair amount of its worth," his letter said.

Drew Opposes Move To Open Tax Field

OTTAWA, April 25 (CP). — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said today the provinces should not be allowed to enter the field of indirect taxation.

He told the Commons that Parliament should refuse to pass a proposed constitutional amendment that would open the way for the provinces to collect a sales tax of up to 3 per cent.

Mr. Drew interjected the topic into the budget debate, but his remarks brought no comment from Finance Minister Douglas Abbott who followed.

Just before the adjournment, members voted 147 to 56 against a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the Government.

The motion, moved earlier in the debate, said Mr. Abbott's budgetary proposals were unsatisfactory because they would "inevitably increase the cost of living for all and especially for those least able to bear it."

Gromyko Attack 'Banal,' Held Unworthy of Reply

PARIS, April 25 (CP). — British Foreign Minister Ernest Davies termed an "insulting banality . . . not worthy of a reply" Andrei Gromyko's latest attack on the United Nations, Winston Churchill and Davies himself.

Gromyko made the attack in the bitterest session of the Big Four deputy foreign ministers' eight-week conference.

He said Korea has become a "meat grinder" for American soldiers and their "satellites" and charged that Churchill has "cannibalistic designs with the atom bomb."

The Soviet deputy told the Western delegates the way to end the Korean war is for U.N. troops to "go home."

NO ROOM FOR CROSSES

"There will not be enough room in Korea for the white crosses over the tombs of the interventionist troops if fighting does not come to an end," he warned.

Later in his two-hour attack, Gromyko said, "listening to Churchill and his cannibalistic advocates like Davies would make Cleopatra blush."

Davies declared that Gromyko has reached "the nadir of insulting banality in a speech not worthy of the dignity of a reply, and I propose to treat it with the contempt it deserves."

Tax Policy To Stand For Brigade

OTTAWA, April 25 (CP). — The Government does not intend to reverse the ruling that members of Canadas Special Force in Korea must pay income tax, a Government spokesman said tonight.

He was commenting on a letter made public today by the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, a veterans' association claiming 200,000 members.

The letter was sent by A. J. Wickens of Moose Jaw, Sask., the association's president, to Defence Minister Brooke Claxton and a copy to Finance Minister Douglas Abbott.

Mr. Wickens asked for a reversal of the income tax ruling because he said he felt "quite certain" the decision "has either been due to oversight in the regulations or to mis-application of them by an over-zealous civil servant in the administration."

Allied Troops Withdraw Across River

—AP Wirephoto.

United Nations infantrymen, pants rolled up and rifles held high, are shown withdrawing across the Pukhan River northeast of Seoul as the Allied line fell back before the furious and long-expected counter-offensive. U.N. commanders were confident their forces would be able to contain the Red advance.

Estimated Cost $1,550

This Year's High Budget Rules Out Multiple Polls

Multiple polling stations will not be instituted in Victoria this year.

City Council decided yesterday it couldn't afford the new system in view of the large budget.

Returning Officer Frank Hunter conservatively estimated multiple polling would add $1,550 to election expenses.

Mayor Percy E. George considered this an extremely conservative estimate. If informative cards were to be sent to each property owner, he felt the cost would be much greater. Mr. Hunter agreed that mailing of cards would add considerably to his estimate.

"In view of all the extra expenses this year, I feel we should forego multiple polling stations," said Alderman William Pinfold.

Replied Alderman Aubrey Kent: "We should give it a try at least. The public has been agitating for multiple polling. I think they expect it."

Railway Plans Big Program

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

If anyone tells you the bachelor life is fun, hit him on the head with a tin of pork and beans. He's lying.

The average married man takes a wistful look every now and then at the green fields of grass-widowerhood, and fancies that he would like to jump over the fence and kick his heels a little.

Then he does it, and finds that the grazing is pretty thin.

Let a man mention casually that his wife is away, and his friends respond with a leer or a wink. They may not actually say "enjoy your freedom, you dog," but that's what they're thinking.

I used to be a victim of that ancient delusion myself, but not any more. I am now convinced that marriage is the best arrangement of its kind devised so far.

Freedom? Tell it to the canaries. A holiday from marriage is no holiday at all. It's a prison sentence. I speak from knowledge, because I am serving two months solitary and hating every minute of it.

* * *

The married bachelor doesn't belong anywhere. His single friends have their fun, and his married friends have their comfort, but he has neither.

The single friends may ask him to join their parties, but he isn't much of a success there. He's just a gooseberry.

The married friends may ask him to dinner because they see him mooning about the office with a vacant look, and take pity on him. But he isn't a very bright guest, because everyone senses that half of him is missing. He is the ghost at the feast.

* * *

Don't babble to me about the gay nonchalance of the temporary bachelor's life.

Who waits to greet me when I come home? Chorus girls flourishing bottles of champagne? No sir. Just the cat, howling for food.

Maybe I do get out now and then for a small evening on the town. But I still come back to an empty house.

Certainly I can spend my money as I like without any nigging about budgets. But I have nobody to spend it on but myself, and I have found myself mighty dull company.

Certainly I can make all the litter I please, but there comes a day when I have to clean it all up.

There are only so many dishes in the house. I can pile them in the sink and relax. But in time I am faced with the choice of washing them or eating off the floor.

Eggs make an acceptable item of diet, but after a week or two they lose their appeal. The same can be said of beans. Very soon a man craves a luscious steak, home-cooked by you know who.

* * *

I suppose you look on me now as a gross materialist who only misses his wife because she can cook and clean the house. That is quite untrue. I also miss her because she knows how to iron my shirts.

Peggy, you had better come home.

Busy Impostor Exposed Among U.N. Diplomats

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., April 25 (INS).—Stephen Weinberg, whose incredible impersonations have carried him to places ranging from the White House to prison, was unmasked again today—this time as a masquerader mingling with top diplomats at the United Nations.

Weinberg, who gained fame when he took charge of Rudolph Valentino's funeral services in [illegible] by posing as the personal physician of screen star Pola Negri, has for the past two years successfully pawned himself off as a close friend of countless statesmen.

The 58-year-old imposter, who has pulled more wool over more eyes than a sweater manufacturer, was known in U.N. circles as Stanley Clifford Weyman, only one of a lengthy string of aliases he has adopted in his fantastic career of posing.

Weinberg was an accredited U.N. correspondent for a small news agency serving a number of American newspapers and radio stations.

SOUGHT AS AGENT

His current exposure resulted from a State Department investigation into an application from the Thailand delegation for "Weyman" to become that country's foreign agent.

Weinberg sold himself to the Thailand diplomats by professing to be a close friend of Prince Wan Waithyaken, Thailand's ambassador to the U.S. Weinberg once actually introduced Prince Wan on a radio program.

On another occasion, Weinberg telephoned a news story to the London Daily Mirror from the U.N. office—and had John Foster Dulles talk to the newspaper's office.

At other times he introduced various U.N. delegates, including officials from Greece, Pakistan, Iraq, Indonesia, Iran, Egypt and Haiti, on radio programs.

BIGGEST BLUFF

His greatest masquerading achievement, however, was in 1921 when, dressed in the uniform of a U.S. naval commander, he went to Washington and presented Princess Fatima to the late President Warren Harding.

For impersonating a naval officer he served two years in a Federal prison.

In 1943 he was sentenced to seven years in jail and fined $17,500 in Federal Court after he pleaded guilty to founding and operating a "school to teach draft evading."

He also has a record of impersonating a special assistant of the Attorney-General of New York State, a consul-general of Romania, a New York Health Department official, and a signal officer in France's aviation corps.

Chemicals Put Under Control

OTTAWA, April 25 (CP).—The Government, which already has opened the way for control of newsprint, today was empowered to control sulphur, a chemical needed in newsprint production and in scarce supply.

Sulphur was among a long list of chemicals declared "essential materials" by the Defence Production Department.

Among other chemicals listed are: Benzol, sulphuric acid, chlorine, glycerine, formaldehyde and phenol, toluol, soda ash, caustic soda, phthalic anhydride, zinc oxide.

Predictions of Rain Bring Hope For Reduced Fire Threat in B.C.

Forecasts of rain brought the possibility of reduced hazard in British Columbia's fire-menaced forests today.

Yesterday the British Columbia Forest Service reported that over most of the province the hazard was still "dangerously high."

[illegible] have been given out on the Island in the last two days to bring the total in the Vancouver fire district to 18.

Officials say the situation on the Island is "slightly improved" but on the Mainland it is unchanged.

OUT OF CONTROL

A fire which is spreading up the side of a mountain near Chilliwack is still out of control. Forest officials say the settlement at Cultus Lake is not in danger from the flames.

A new fire at Tahsis on the West Coast of Vancouver Island has destroyed some logging equipment and a quantity of felled timber. Forestry officials say loggers have the fire under control. New fires at Courtenay and Alberni are reported under control.

The record dry spell of 29 days resulted in forest officials advancing the fire season two weeks in this district. It normally comes into effect May 1.

Never in the history of the service has the forest fire menace been so high for this time of year.

Some relief is in sight for Northern Vancouver Island. Rain is forecast but it is expected to taper off to showers as the storm moves toward Southern Vancouver Island.

The Ottawa River, largest tributary of the St. Lawrence, was first visited in 1610 by Etienne Brule.

Province Gives $2,000 For Archeological Study

The British Columbia Cabinet yesterday made available a $2,000 grant to the University of British Columbia for an archeological survey of a 300-square-mile area in the Interior of the Province, due to be flooded as part of the huge Alcan project.

Announcement of the grant followed submission of a brief prepared by Wilson Duff, anthropologist at the Provincial Museum here, and presented jointly by Mr. Duff and Dr. Charles E. Borden, archeologist at U.B.C.

Present plans of the Aluminum Company call for construction of a 300-foot dam on the Nechako River, involving the flooding of some 450 miles of lake and river margin, obliterating all traces of man's past in the areas.

Although archeology of the district, like that of most parts of the Province, has never been investigated, scientists believe that it has probably been inhabited for thousands of years.

Anthropologists consider it one of the main migration routes by which the earliest immigrants to the Americas traveled in their journeys from the Bering Strait area to all parts of Western America.

The lake system in the area is known to have served as an ancient route linking the Coast and the Interior, Mr. Duff said, adding that a well-used "grease trail" connects the lakes with Dean Channel and Gardner Canal.

The survey will be conducted this Summer by Dr. Borden, assisted by Mr. Duff.

"We plan to complete the survey this year so that a couple of Summers will remain before the floodwaters rise for whatever excavations are necessary," Mr. Duff said.

"We consider this a very big step forward in archeology in B.C. and an encouraging sign that the Government is aware of other than just the commercial effects of our industrial growth."

New Controls To Be Sought By President

WASHINGTON, April 25 (INS).—President Truman disclosed today he will ask Congress Thursday to check soaring food prices by freezing farm parity and request tougher rent controls with authority to roll back rents to pre-Korean levels.

The President's plans for new controls were disclosed as the Government punctured its 10 per cent pay increase ceiling by approving a six-cent hourly wage hike for 1,000,000 non-operating railroad workers.

Under present law, farm prices cannot be controlled so long as they are below parity—a calculated fair return to farmers. Any proposal to alter this system is certain to meet stiff opposition from farm bloc legislators and from the major farm organizations.

CREDIT CURBS

It was reported that Mr. Truman will also propose strengthening of bank credit restrictions.

The rail pay hike for 15 non-operting brotherhoods, approved by economic stabilizer Eric Johnson, was the Government's first retreat on wages.

U.S. Leaders Under Fire From European Critics

STRASBOURG, April 25 (NANA).—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, G.I. hero of the Western campaigns, has been added to the group of U.S. leaders under fire over here—all because of his book in which British Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery is criticized.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is under fire, too. His fault: Too [illegible] Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who was too outspoken.

Letters to newspapers tell the story. "If Ike wasn't so cautious," says one, "he would declare at once that the Atlantic Pact army is a mockery and hasn't a chance of resisting Russia."

Throughout the war years, U.S. generals could scarcely do wrong. Now, they can do no right in the eyes of critics in Europe.

Bradley was okay when he sided with the President against MacArthur. But he is in the dog-house because his book quotes Gen. George Patton's opinion of the British leader.

The odd thing about Montgomery is that he is the most severely criticized of all Allied generals in European military clubs. But the English press glorifies him as a public idol.

Chicago to Greet Gen. MacArthur

CHICAGO, April 25 (INS).—More than 3,000,000 midwesterners heartened by the promise of ideal Spring weather, are expected to cheer Gen. MacArthur tomorrow when he arrives in Chicago for his mammoth reception.

The general and his party are scheduled to land at Midway airport in the MacArthur plane, The Bataan, at 12:30 p.m., C.S.T.

Thousands will pack the airport for the first welcoming cheers and millions more will crowd every inch of the 23-mile route the MacArthur motorcade will follow in a parade to the Loop for special exercises.

Ontario Plans Move to Halt Sales by Fraud

TORONTO, April 25 (CP).—Operations of law designed to halt fraudulent stock sales will come under investigation by Ontario's crime committee.

Attorney-General Porter, committee chairman, today told the recently-appointed Select Legislature Committee it should take a thorough look at what the Ontario Securities Commission is doing to enforce securities regulations, and should consider charges that Canadians are selling securities illegally in the United States.

The seven-man committee, after two days of hearings, adjourned until May 8. It also:

1. Moved to call in a representative of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada in connection with telephone service supplied to bookmakers.

2. Heard Clifford Magone, deputy attorney-general, say he felt that lotteries for religious and charitable purposes—now illegal under Federal law—should be made legal.

Census Cost Up $4,000,000

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, April 25 (CP). — Everything, it seems, has gone up in price these days, and that includes the cost of taking a census.

Officials estimate that the 1951 census, the largest in history, likely will cost Canada about $9,000,000. That compares with $5,000,000 for the 1941 count and $3,500,000 for the census 20 years ago.

Of course, the 1951 census will include a lot more things than those surveyed in 1941. For example, there'll be a count of irrigation projects and the fishing industry for the first time. The army of field workers will be increased to 18,000 from 15,000 and training will be intensified, too.

Wages alone will eat up more than $6,000,000 or about 70 per cent of the expected $9,000,000 bill.

Here's how the wage bill likely will be split:

1. The 18,000 census-takers, working on a rate basis, likely will take a big chunk, about $2,000,000 or more.

2. About 2,000 clerks and superintendents, working in regional offices, likely will pick up another $3,500,000 in straight salary.

3. A straight three-month salary to 850 census field supervisors likely will absorb about $500,000.

4. The bill for the 262 district census commissioners likely will run to about $300,000.

In 1941, a census commissioner, working on a rate basis, got one cent for each urban and rural person counted. He gets 1½ cents to two cents, respectively, in 1951. The same step-up goes for each house counted. He got three cents for each farm surveyed in 1941; in 1951 he gets six.

The average commissioner got about $1,000 on the average for about five months work in 1941. He will do better this year.

The census-taker will get eight cents for each person counted, up from five cents ten years ago; for each farm, 50 cents instead of 35; for each business establishment, seven instead of five.

At that rate, he should average about $150 for about three weeks' work. The traveling allowance for rural enumerators has been jumped to seven cents for each person counted instead of five cents as in 1941.

Field supervisors, brought into the census picture for the first time, will collect $200 a month for three months starting in June.

In regional offices, the smaller army of clerks will get an average salary of about $160 a month.

U.S. Ties Strings on Aid for Chiang

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).—The United States is furnishing military aid to Formosa under an agreement requiring Chinese Nationalists to use the arms for internal security or "legitimate self-defence" only.

This was disclosed today by State Secretary Dean Acheson, who released the text of the agreement reached three months ago.

Acheson also told a press conference that the Government's Formosan policy has not changed since President Truman assigned the United States Seventh Fleet last June to protect the island against possible Red Chinese invasion.

Formosan policy has been one of the controversial points in the row between Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

MacArthur has taken the position that keeping Formosa in friendly hands is essential to the security of the American defence line in the Western Pacific.

FAVORS ATTACK

With respect to the Chinese troops on the island under Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, MacArthur has taken the position that they should be used to attack the Communist mainland.

However, the Administration has opposed the use of Nationalist Chinese troops either in Korea or in operations against the mainland.

The first of four requirements accepted by Chiang in the agreement says that "the Chinese Government will use the material to maintain its internal security or its legitimate self-defence."

The others are that the Chinese will protect any American military secrets they obtain through the aid program, will accept American officials assigned to assist in the use of the aid, and will not transfer or dispose of any military material without American approval.

B.C. Scientist Reports On Antarctic Expedition

VANCOUVER, April 25 (CP).—Mrs. M. F. Roots has heard from her son after a year's silence—a diary-like packet of letters totaling about 30,000 words.

Dr. E. Fred Roots, 28-year-old geologist, is the lone Canadian in a 15-man British-Norwegian-Swedish expedition on Queen Maud Land in the Antarctic.

He went to the Antarctic 15 months ago on the invitation of the Royal Geographical Society and the Scott Polar Research Institute. He does not expect to leave for another year. In his letters Dr. Roots tells what it's like to live in a "refrigerator" on a continent of solid ice.

ANNUAL MAIL

Mail comes and goes from the expedition only once a year in a specially-designed ice-breaker.

The only living things on the ice, besides the scientists from the three countries, are penguins and seals.

Valuable weather data is one of the objectives of the expedition. The party spends days in sending up weather balloons; digging samples from the lower levels of the ice with a boring machine, and photographing ice crystals in a laboratory.

The expedition buildings, originally built on ice, now are completely under it.

"Sometimes it gets so warm the men can take off their mitts," said Dr. Roots.

The Canadian geologist was born at Salmon Arm, B.C. He is a graduate of the University of British Columbia and Princeton University.

Quick Response

Acheson Promises Help of U.S. To Meet U.K. Materials Lack

LONDON, April 25 (AP). — The Labor Government, shaken by left-wing thunderings, called for American help today to check a raw materials crisis threatening the country's economy. It got a prompt response.

State Secretary Dean Acheson pledged at a Washington press conference that the United States will take "full account of essential needs" of friendly countries in allocating scarce raw materials. The U.S. will press for increased production and for efficient use of existing stocks, he said.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison warned in a speech before the American Chamber of Commerce here that Britain's living standards, her economy and even her rearmament drive will decline unless she gets more essential supplies. He said the Government will cut the living standards before the rearmament program if the scarcities continue. He pleaded for the U.S. to help.

REASON FOR TROUBLE

It was upon the living standard vs. armament issue that the Labor Government almost foundered earlier this week.

The Labor Party his geared up its machine to crush a revolt by left-wingers who declare the guns-before-butter policy won't work. Leaders of the revolt are Aneurin Bevan, Harold Wilson and John Freeman, who have quit their Government jobs respectively as Labor Minister, president of the Board of Trade, and Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Supply.

The Labor Party's national executive committee over-ruled the objections of Bevan and his handful of friends today and, in an official statement, called on all members to stand firmly behind the Government and its "fair and reasonable budget."

Director Says Was Once Red

WASHINGTON, April 25 (INS) —Edward Dmytryk, former $2,500-a-week movie director who went to jail for contempt of Congress, admitted today that he once was a Communist and named 22 Hollywood figures as fellow Reds.

Dmytryk made his admission to the House UnAmerican Activities Committee—the same group he and nine others in the so-called "Hollywood ten" defied in 1947 by refusing to say whether they were Communists. As a result, Dmytryk served a six-month term and the others were jailed.

The 42-year-old director, native of Grand Forks, B.C., said he now is willing to "tell all" because of the Korean war, disclosures in the Alger Hiss, Judith Coplon and Klau Fuchs trials, and statements such as Paul Robeson's that he would not fight for the United States against Russia.

Oddities

GLASGOW, April 25 (AP).—Bus conductors went on a "free-fares-for-all" protest strike last night. But the sudden rush of thousands seeking free rides was more than any true Scot could stand. The conductors called the whole thing off at midnight and hurriedly started collecting fares.

ST. ALBANS, England April 25 (Reuters)—Technicians who built a British Victorian pawn shop for a scene in the new movie "The Magic Box" did their work well. The shop looked so real that yesterday a man walked in and tried to hock a pair of pants.

DUBOIS, Pa., April 25 (AP).—Agent Leo Brockbank saw everything but red while closing a real estate deal. Here's what happened: Rolland and Mary White sold their property to John and Nancy Gray. John Green, William G. Brown and Charles Black witnessed the transaction. Blue ink was used.

Saving the National Economy?

WERE this March when hares gambol, or that singular day in April when absurdities are prized, one might receive with a straight face the momentous announcement that the British Columbia Government, as a gesture towards national solidarity in the conservation of much-needed building materials, has decided to issue no more licences for beer parlors for the duration of the emergency. As it is late April, however, the Attorney-General's words must be taken seriously. Considered so, with due allowance of course for the "few remaining" beer licence applications on hand, it might reasonably be estimated that the total effect on the national economy of this drastic self-sacrifice could be expressed by a decimal point with ten zeros to the right of it, followed by any number Mr. Wismer likes to think of from 1 to 9.

Having made that—very liberal—concession, it can be pointed out with a clear conscience that on the same day the same Government announced that it had already authorized the B.C. Power Commission to go ahead on a very extensive piece of construction with an outlay of $4,135,000 for a new power dam at the disputed site of Buttle Lake. In short, it would appear that the Attorney-General's statement was more in the realm of political economy, than economy or conservation per se. In that field, it is a very slim red herring to offer as cover for the fact that, after three tries, there has been added one more beer licence to the existing provincial monopoly.

Civil Defence Evolving Into Reality

ACCORDING to Saturday Night, the Toronto weekly, Canadian civil defence preparations are ahead of the United States, which is perhaps surprising. This country has been none too speedy in organizing for civilian protection in a war emergency, and one had assumed that across the line this aspect of the defence planning had more or less kept pace with the accelerated military program.

More of a move is apparent now in Canada. Practically all cities of more than 50,000 population are reported to have appointed civil defence directors. These of course include the Greater Victoria area, which seems to have been among the first to make a start on this essential feature of national preparedness. The recent call for volunteers here indicates that the important stage of organizing the public itself has now been reached, and it was a happy idea to enlist the various clubs and societies of the city in the initial work of enrollment.

Elsewhere there has been a welcome spurt given to A.R.P. planning generally. On the provincial level also steps are being taken to get down to brass tacks, so that civil defence grouping and training may shortly become an actuality throughout British Columbia. Victoria should endeavor to keep the head start it seems to have attained.

Inflation Feeds on Public Apathy

A VICTORIA garage proprietor made a disturbing remark the other day with reference to public reaction to the rise in prices for gasoline. Commenting on the volume of business after the increases were announced but before they went into effect, he said: "It was just an ordinary day. People don't line up just to save a dime or 20 cents on a tank of gas."

Right there he put his finger on one of the worst evils of prolonged inflation. When people grow inured to rising prices to the point where they won't go out of their way to save a dime or 20 cents, then it is time to do some really serious worrying about what is happening to the country.

A public which throws up its hands in despair over the unchecked climb of prices for everything, and which glumly accepts each addition to the cost of living and of being governed, needs to be jolted out of its apathy. If all the fight goes out of the people themselves there is not much hope of the Government taking over the battle against inflation on their behalf.

Women Once More in Military Uniform

NOTHING should bring home to Canadians more seriously the critical nature of world affairs than the announcement that women will be recruited for all three of the armed services. Even though this move had been foreshadowed for some time, and there is the precedent of the late war to go by, the inclusion of women in the military picture nevertheless indicates the urgency of the situation.

Time was when such a move would have shocked a civilization, but that is long past, so that it is taken as a matter of course that servicewomen can play an important role in defence of a modern nation. That they can, and no doubt the recruiting response will be all that is desired. Initially at least only the Air Force will accept recruits for the regular force; the Army and Navy confining their appeal to the reserve ranks, but these services undoubtedly will also broaden the scope in due course.

One notes that equal status and rank will be given to the feminine members of the forces; which is as it should be, since they will in effect be doing men's jobs while in uniform. That uniform is to be given a new look, also an appropriate circumstance. The women who wear it will bring credit to the country they serve.

HELPED AT FIRE

Sir,—I would like to take this opportunity to thank all our neighbors for their great kindness and offers of help when our house caught fire last Sunday evening. They were simply wonderful.

I would particularly like to mention Lieut. Robert Mortimer and his men of No. 3 Fire Hall, Saanich, for their very quick response to the alarm call. There is no doubt at all that their prompt arrival and action saved the whole building and contents from total destruction.

It was also owing to them paying particular attention to covering the furniture with heavy tarpaulins that the water damage was negligible.

It is very comforting and reassuring to know that we have such men to protect our property and, who knows, maybe our lives.

Thanks again, everyone. Gratefully yours,

HARRY P. PILLINGER.

1548 Cedar Hill Crossroad, Victoria, B.C.

DESTROYING WILDFLOWERS

Sir,—We are yet another victim to people who come out to the country in cars and then trespass to steal from other people's property.

We had a treasured patch of trilliums that we have been watching increase with great pleasure the four years that we have owned this property and have done our best to protect. But this time we were too late; the lovely flowers were ravished, leaving one poor solitary plant.

Country folk would never dream of taking plants and flowers from city gardens. Also everyone should surely know that a picked or pulled trillium never grows again.

Could not these plants be protected, like the dogwood trees, while they are still with us?

FRANCES HILL.

FOR VETERANS' HOSPITAL

Sir,—As president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital I wish publicly to thank the many who assisted us to secure the new veterans' recreational bus for the use of wheel-chair cases and other patients. . . .

The total cost of purchase, overhauling, reconversion, etc. was $2,713.96. To realise this amount, "Tapering Teas" were organised which raised $2,500 and, with a few additional contributions, the full amount was raised.

This result could not have been accomplished without the full-hearted support of some 4,000 women in Greater Victoria, whose efforts were greatly appreciated, not only by the auxiliary but by the veteran patients. Victorians may well be proud as this is the only bus of its kind west of Ontario.

MARGARET HARVEY,
President,
Veterans' Hospital Women's Auxiliary.

ARTHRITIC CASES

Sir,—Many a time have I heard people who have given donations to the Arthritic Society say they would like to know more of the workings of the society and to see results.

I am an arthritic of some twenty years. True, many kind doctors have helped me over this period, but never have I had such a thorough examination with the help of X-ray as I was given at the clinic here in Victoria. The doctor and nurses left no stone unturned to find a way to help me. Thanks to their care, I am ever so much better again and do wish publicly to thank the doctor and nurses.

I am only one of the many sufferers who have been helped here in Victoria.

From "Thyrsis"

Yes, thou art gone! And round me too the night
In ever-nearing circle weaves her shade.
I see her veil draw soft across the day,
I feel her slowly chilling breath invade
The cheek grown thin, the brown hair sprent with grey;
I feel her finger light
Laid pausefully upon life's headlong train:
The foot less prompt to meet the morning dew,
The heart less bounding at emotion new,
And hope, once crush'd, less quick to spring again.

HOLDING HER DOWN

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

YESTERDAY I indulged my whimsey at the expense of old soldiers. I had no thought to write any more about the species, delightful though I find them, but . . .

No sooner had I typed the last word of that piece than in walked a venerable, upright gentleman.

He was 87 years of age, an ex-Royal Marine, and he had just come from digging his garden. Didn't I say they never faded away?

Last month, March 22 to be exact, was the anniversary of a day way back in 1885 when his unit, part of the Gordon Relief Expedition, had fought an engagement under the broiling sun of the Soudan. He had written an account of it a month ago but had been forced to go to hospital for a while.

Now he wondered if he could get it in the paper.

He was a gentle-spoken, fine old soldier. How could I refuse?

* * *

At Suakin, Red Sea port of Eastern Soudan, on March 22, 1885, his Royal Marine battalion was ordered to parade outside the water forts at 4 a.m. The force included the 49th Royal Berkshires, the 14 15th Sikhs, Madras sappers, an R. E. balloon section, some 21st Lancers, two gun crews under Lieut. Seymour, R.N., about 3,000 in all. The commander was General Sir John McNeil, V.C.

Each man was issued 70 rounds of ammunition, one day's ration of bully beef and biscuits, and one pint of water. Then they moved off for Tamaii.

They cut their way with axes through dense mimosa bush for five miles, halted for dinner inside a zareba, a broad hedge formed by the cut bush, and relaxed.

Suddenly there was a loud yelling and fanatical Dervishes burst from the bush all around the camp. It was a surprise attack. A hello warning from a young artillery observer on a hill nine miles away—his name was Lake and he afterwards became the revered Sir Percy of Victoria, B.C.—came too late.

* * *

The force sprang to unpile their arms, says ex-Royal Marine A. E. Sartin, 2093 Crescent Road.

"We began rapid independent fire that checked the first rush. On they came again but we were ready for them now. From start to finish the fight lasted about 30 minutes, our casualties were 620 killed and wounded. The 49th were the heaviest losers, about 200 officers and men, including Lieutenant Seymour and his whole gun crew. At the height of the attack our padre, Father Collings, was laying it onto a couple of Dervishes with his stick to protect some wounded men. He was later awarded the V.C. For this engagement we were given a bar to our medal, named Tofrek."

Next day the force took its wounded back to base and returned to the zareba, strengthened by the Coldstream Guards. Three days later they reached the town of Tamali, had a short skirmish, burned the town and returned to base for a rest. There they enjoyed their first wash for a week. They were allowed only a pint of drinking water per day, a half-pint breakfast cup of Tea and a half-pint evening tea.

Not much . . . a Soudanese Summer, says Mr. Sartin.

That's all. Just the memory of a noon-day battle under a burning sun on far-off sands, retained by a stalwart old marine. In Victoria there are two survivors of that Egyptian campaign; the other is J. Milne, 3024 Jutland Road, also of the Royal Marines, Portsmouth Division.

A salute to them both.

Reporting From Ottawa

ON the first of this month, everyone in Canada who owned a radio became a lawbreaker whether he wanted to or not.

This curious situation, which the Government created and perpetuates, arises from the fact that it is impossible to buy a licence to operate a radio receiving set in advance of the start of the year in which the licence will be valid.

The law says that if you have a radio, you must pay the Department of Transport $2.50 a year for the privilege of using it. The proceeds of the fee are turned over to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to help it finance its operations.

The licences expire at midnight each March 31. Unless, at the stroke of midnight, you pop your radio into the furnace or drop it into the river, you become a lawbreaker by having an unlicensed radio in your possession.

Maybe you don't want to be a lawbreaker. So you go to the authorities on March 31 to buy a licence to cover the operation of your "radio receiving station" for the following 12 months. No dice. The Government won't sell you one until the next day. But at midnight you become a lawbreaker, subject to court action and fine or imprisonment.

* * *

Liberal M.P. Dan Riley of Saint John-Albert thought this was a fine howdydo when he learned of it last year, but his efforts to get the department to sell licences in advance, like car licences, bore no fruit. He'll try again this year.

Officials of the Transport Department excuse the situation by saying it would be too much trouble to sell licences before the start of each year. And besides, they add, they never prosecute anyone for not having a licence during the first few weeks of the fiscal year — only when radio owners neglect to get one after a reasonable length of time.

But that's not the point. The Government, which should uphold the sanctity of the law, forces people to break the law. Morally, that's not good.

* * *

It may be coincidence that Government action to declare newsprint an essential material followed closely the visit of President Auriol of France. But I think not.

When the erstwhile French Premier, Rene Pleven, was in Ottawa, early this year, he urged Trade Minister Howe to make more paper for printing newspapers available to France. In that country, he argued, it is a strategic defence material in that there will be a general election this year and the anti-Communist parties need newsprint to campaign against the Reds.

Howe and the Government were sympathetic, but they pointed out that the demand for Canadian newsprint far exceeded the supply. Practically the entire Canadian surplus was committed under contract to our long-term American customers.

Then came Auriol, accompanied by Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. Whether the President took the matter up with Prime Minister St. Laurent isn't known, but it is known that Schuman discussed it, repeating the arguments Pleven had used.

Thus it wasn't surprising when Howe issued an order under the new Defence Production Act listing newsprint and pulp as essential materials — admittedly "so the Government could more carefully scrutinize and, if necessary, regulate the international trade in these important commodities."

It seems likely the Government will now find such regulation necessary, and that as a result more Canadian newsprint will be shipped to France for anti-Communist papers there.

More Reason Than Ever

(From The Winnipeg Tribune)

THE increase in the Dominion sales tax to 10 from 8 per cent announced by Mr. Abbott should make Parliament more chary than ever of approving a constitutional amendment to give the provincial governments the right to impose a hidden sales tax of 3 per cent.

Some time ago a Member of the House of Commons show that, although the Federal sales tax at manufacturers' level was 8 per cent, by the time the goods reached the consumer the tax was actually 14.8 per cent. He cited the example of a pair of stockings on which the manufacturer added the 8 per cent tax. The markups of the wholesaler, jobber and retailer were computed on a basis of tax included. This meant that by the time the stockings reached the retail customer the tax had pyramided to something nearly double the original 8 per cent.

This pyramiding will be even worse now that the rate has been increased to ten per cent.

If the provinces had power to impose a hidden 3 per cent tax on top of the Dominion sales tax pyramid, it would be in effect a tax on a tax. The tax content of goods needed in everyday living would rise sharply and the cost of living equally sharply.

There were many sound reasons why the 3 per cent tax asked for by the provinces was harmful and undesirable, even before the budget announcement. The increase in the Dominion sales tax makes these reasons all the more cogent.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Cries go up throughout the country over inflation. Also at Ottawa, where it begins to be wondered if policy wouldn't be the best policy.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THERE is something pathetic — both for us and for the Canadian Indians—the way, from time to time, Parliament brings forth a large and solemn bill for the reform of the Indians' lot and for the alleviation of our public conscience. But, as is the case with conscience so often, it appears that the mere consideration of the subject suffices.

While the recent bill was before the House at Ottawa, the press of Canada gave it generous publicity. [illegible] full of good, round, sympathetic phrases abounded. But somehow, somewhere, in the whole Indian question there is something more than an Indian in the woodpile. It might almost appear-that there are, in high and influential places in our country, a considerable number of hard-headed men who see to it that nothing sentimental, nothing sloppy and weak-minded, be done with regard to our Indians. Nothing, in short, must stand in the way of the potential exploitation of Canada's great resources. And if we don't watch out, the Indian might stand in that way.

Not all the Indians have been confined to reservations and segregated villages. Of the 140,000 of them still alive in Canada, from coast to coast, numbers are still free in the wilds. And they seem to have some claim still, to their ancient heritage. That may be what irks the sagacious white man.

The opponent of Indian reform would be happy if all the Indians were confined to reservations and villages. Those who cannot then adopt the white man's way of life efficiently may well be disregarded. They were given their chance.

But to have Indians loose, and possibly multiplying, in areas rich with potential timber, minerals, power and other resources, from which they would have to be evicted, is only to prolong, in the opinion of these far-sighted promoters, the ugly problem that faced our Canadian forebears as they chivvied, province by province, the Indian out of his ancient and lawful home.

Canada's Iron

By STEFFAN ANDREWS
North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON. — A record-breaking boom in the production of iron ore is forecast for Canada by United States economic experts and diplomatic officials. The forecast was made by the American Embassy economic staff in Ottawa for the State Department.

The official report predicted that Canadian iron ore output soon would reach a record peak of 20,000,000 tons a year from the Quebec-Labrador region and the Steep Rock area in Northwestern Ontario. In the case of the Labrador region, the forecast was for a production of 10,000,000 tons a year by 1954. In the Ontario area, an eventual iron-ore potential of another 10,000,000 tons was envisaged.

This booming output was pictured as enhancing considerably "the bright promise of Canada's industrial future" and aiding appreciably in filling the vast demand for iron ore in the United States defence mobilization program.

Although the United States is still the world's leading iron-ore producer, Commerce Department officials noted that the highly productive Mesabi Range in Minnesota is petering out and United States producers are now searching for other sources of high-grade ore.

The Canadian development was regarded as a marked advancement in new production prospects, since the report noted that Canada's total iron-ore output for 1950 was less than 3,650,000 tons.

In a quick survey of Canada's other industrial prospects, the American officials found that:

The Alberta oil boom was still in high gear with drilling very active and proven reserves reaching a 1,000,000,000-barrel mark.

A record-breaking 1,037,275 horsepower of new generating capacity was placed into operation for Canada's industry in 1950 and that an additional 1,000,000 h.p. will soon be developed at Niagara Falls.

A phenomenal lumber demand from the United States had boosted Canadian production of sawn lumber in 1950 to 8,900,000 thousand-board feet as compared with 5,300,000 thousand-board feet in 1949.

25 YEARS AGO—The tax rates for the four municipalities have now been struck as follows, last year's rates being shown in parentheses: Victoria, 39 mills (39.63); Saanich, 25 (25); Oak Bay, 31 (34); Esquimalt, 26.5 (22.5).

50 YEARS AGO—Messrs. Young Bros. have received from their oyster beds at Esoke Harbor a number of Eastern oysters, the offspring of some they planted several years ago. The imported oysters have grown very large in their new habitat.

Pats Fight Red Chinese to Standstill

Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in Korea, writes the first detailed report on today's action. Under censorship regulations, he cannot at the moment mention Canadian troops, the Patricias, or the home towns of the men he interviews.

(Editor's Note.—Though censorship regulations forbid correspondents in the field mentioning it, it is presumed Mr. Boss, Canadian Press correspondent in Korea, refers in this article to the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.)

By BILL BOSS

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, Korea, April 25 (CP).—United Nations mountain warriors won their spurs today, holding their front and refusing to budge even though outflanked and encircled.

It was a knock-down, drag-out battle with wave upon wave upon wave of Chinese Communists who did everything but drive them from their positions.

These United Nations troops are on the West Central sector northeast of Seoul. Look at any up-to-date battle map and the thick burr of resistance to the Communist onslaught is in the centre.

Cut off, encircled, these United Nations troops fought on and by late morning today had cleared the enemy from their rear, had beaten him off their flanks and held him on their front.

FAMILIAR PROCEDURES

The Chinese employed all their familiar battle procedures in the attack—whistles, bugles, a banzai chorus, concerted action on the word of command and massed assaults followed one another in swift succession.

This was familiar only by description for these United Nations troops who until now had fought mainly an advancing war against token resistance. Now it was grim reality.

But they held. While others on the flanks were overwhelmed by sheer weight of numbers, they stayed steady as rocks.

The Reds' attack materialized in force at 10 p.m. Tuesday.

One sergeant said of the enemy soldiers:

"They're quiet as mice with those rubber shoes of theirs and then there's a whistle. They get up with a shout about ten feet from our positions and come in.

"The first wave throws its grenades, fires its weapons and goes to the ground. It is followed by a second which does the same, and a third comes up. Where they disappear to I don't know. But they just keep coming."

On the position held by that sergeant's company the Chinese kept coming until 4 a.m. By then, the forward platoon had exhausted almost its ammunition. The sergeant hurled his bayonetted rifle like a spear at the enemy.

While two gunners stood up and gave covering fire from the hip, the remainder withdrew—but only 50 yards. There the company continued the fight, dividing the remaining ammunition and holding out until the enemy pressure relented.

I counted 17 dead Chinese within inches and feet of those troops today and approximately 50 graves of enemy buried in the [illegible] counted enemy dead where an intended rear and flank attack was thwarted.

Another company fought at close quarters against waves of Chinese troops. This company shot and grenaded the enemy until its ammunition ran out.

Then a young captain fighting his first action as company commander gave the order:

"Get into your slit trenches. Get well down. Stay there."

He then demanded artillery and mortar fire. Guns and mortars [illegible] until 6 a.m. today.

And when it was over the Chinese had had enough. They withdrew down northward and dug in only 100 yards away.

Victoria May Queen Back at Work; Won't Let Choice Upset Her Routine

Elizabeth Dolman, Queen of Victoria, went back to her regular work at a fish and chip shop yesterday afternoon.

She admitted that being chosen queen of Victoria's May 24 celebrations was "pretty exciting" but that her daily routine wasn't going to suffer "not for a while, anyway."

Elizabeth (but she'd rather be called Betty) is 16 and a Grade X student at Mount View High School, where she is taking a commercial course. She works at the fish and chip shop after school and Saturdays. Upon graduation from Mount View she hopes to become a stenographer "or something."

SAW BLITZ

Betty has been a Victoria resident only for the past two years. She was born in London and lived there until 1949. She still has vivid recollections of the blitz of London during the World War, when she and her family were bombed out of their home.

Betty has no ambitions to return to England, except maybe for a visit. She likes the Canadian people and especially the school teachers, who, she feels, treat their students much more like humans.

A member of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team and the swimming club at her school, Betty appropriately places dancing and swimming at the head of her list of interests. Competing with these two interests is a fellow named Bill.

CO-WORKERS

Betty works at the Burnside Fish and Chip Shop with two other students from Mount View High School. All three were candidates for the school's May Queen selection. Betty won out in a student vote. Selection of the queen from the seven candidates from different schools was made in a drawing Tuesday night.

Elizabeth lives with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Dolman at 720 University. She has no brothers or sisters.

When asked how she felt about winning the queen contest she replied, "It's been exciting. I'd hoped I'd win, of course, but I didn't really expect to. I'll try to do my best to be a good queen."

Steamers Arriving To Carry Lumber

The Hawaiian Lumberman is due here today to load 560,000 feet of lumber for Honolulu at Ogden Point, King Bros., shipping agents said yesterday.

Ss. Seawall was expected in last night to load 550,000 feet of lumber for Eastern Canada. Expected on April 27 is the Argos Hill and the Eastcape on April 28, both to load lumber for the United Kingdom.

The Ss. Lakeside will be in Esquimalt drydock Sunday after arriving Saturday night.

Sportsmen Ask Change in Site Of Power Dam

VANCOUVER, April 25 (CP)... Plans of sportsmen to have the Buttle Lake power development switched to Upper Campbell Lake have been placed before the Fish and Game Council.

At a meeting yesterday Vice-President Duncan Marshall of Campbell River explained a campaign to have the final step of the John Hart Power Development project at Upper Campbell Lake rather than Buttle.

"Claims by the Power Commission that glacial drift makes a dam at Upper Campbell Lake impractical are based on no more than a cursory survey by air," he said.

"We are basing our request for an untouched Buttle Lake and its surrounding Strathcona Park on the need for a Vancouver Island wilderness area. We contend that the already logged off Upper Campbell is more easily spared for final and complete development of the watershed's power potential."

Salvation Army to Open Sunset Lodge on May 21

The Salvation Army's new Sunset Lodge, a home for elderly women, will be officially opened May 21, officials of the organization said yesterday.

The $50,000 project at 952 Arm Street, Esquimalt, has accommodation for about 35 women who will be charged monthly rates between $30 and $40.

Commissioner Charles Baugh, territorial commander of the Salvation Army for Canada, will officiate at the opening.

J. C. Thow, manager of the main branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Victoria, was named chairman of the Victoria Salvation Army advisory board at a recent annual meeting.

He succeeds C. C. Simpson. R. W. Hibberson was named vice-chairman for 1951.

The bombing of Manchuria was described privately at LAKE SUCCESS yesterday as a justified self-defence step if Chinese Communists attack in Korea with large numbers of warplanes.

In certain U.N. delegation circles, it was stated flatly that the unified command requires no specific authority from the world organization to go ahead and strike at Mao Tze-Tung's Manchurian air bases "if and when" the Communists provoke an air war.

It was stressed, however, that the U.N. air force will not be permitted to take the initiative in such a conflict.

Bright Songs, Costumes Add Sparkle to Comedy

By RON BAIRD

Some lively songs and clever costuming added greatly to the stature of a locally written and produced musical comedy which bowed in for three days at the Sirocco last night.

The Stone, with book and lyrics by H. B. Binny and musical score by Muriel Ritchie, offers some pleasant moments during its three acts.

[illegible] for the pleasantries are the fine voice of Stan Martin and the services of a tasty sextette of girls who manage to keep things clicking merrily with good song material.

Lead players Laura Miller, Gerry Guest and Margaret McQuarrie head a competent cast.

Sometimes the pace drags a bit and none of the cast looked any too happy at the end of the final act, but it was opening night and the house was dotted with empty seats.

HIGHLIGHT

One of the brightest things about the show was the able and entertaining work of the sextette — Mary Gardner, Johanna Stadfeld, Margaret McDonald, Janet Bowden, Pamela Scratchley and Sheila Collings.

A great deal of deserved credit goes to the authors of The Stone and Betty Kerkham, for her wardrobe design.

The Stone plays tonight and Friday at 8 p.m.

It's a bright, catchy musical worth taking a look at.

Mr. Hobson's topic was "Graves of Failure."

Second place went to J. M. Brayshaw speaking on "I Want to Stay Home," and third place to Ronald Boulde with the topic, "Etc., Ad Infinitum."

All three winners are members of Union Toastmasters' Club, No. 231.

The contest, intended primarily to encourage novice speakers, is limited to those who have had not more than one year of formal training in public speaking.

Other contestants in the finals were Jack Verteuil, Mrs. Irene Warren, Ernest Langston, S. Snobelen, Edward Estlin and Thomas Wilson. Contestants in the final round were the three winners in each of three preliminary rounds.

Carpenters' Outlook Now Good, Now Bad

Just how has a reported slump in the building industry affected Victoria's carpenters?

The question was still open for debate yesterday after a brisk probe into the situation.

According to a union spokesman only 30 carpenters—in the older age group—are "on the books," and they may soon be snapped up.

But a business agent for the same union said 150 carpenters had been on the books since Christmas.

Union officials also reported no drop in total membership and no carpenters seeking jobs in other cities or in other fields. But Victoria City Manager C. C. Wyatt told City Council yesterday a number of carpenters had accepted laborers' jobs with the city because there wasn't enough work in their own trade.

"OUT OF WORK"

The query started when J. A. Pollard, president of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, said home building in the city was in a slump, throwing an increased number of carpenters out of work.

At the same time C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Service office in Victoria, was reporting the lowest April level of unemployment in three years.

It looked like a simple probe into what happened to carpenters thrown out of work by the alleged building slump.

It turned out to be a puzzler.

Yesterday the business agent of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local 1598, said 150 carpenters had been on the books since last Christmas.

"SLIGHT SURPLUS"

Mr. Mudge said a "slight surplus" of carpenters was the only blot on a cheerful job picture marked by "barrel-scraping" in some trades and an increasing shortage of general laborers.

An order for 12 carpenters was filled yesterday, he said.

Meanwhile, a union spokesman reported only 30 carpenters—elderly ones—were on the union books as compared with 75 a month ago.

Nobody seemed to know why the supply of carpenters was apparently decreasing in the face of less work.

Union officials said total membership had declined little if any, and that only one man had left for an Up-Island project.

SIX MONTHS

The variant accounts were topped off by a union report that school building, a navy housing project at Belmont and other jobs would keep their men busy for about six months.

Other construction trades seemed unperturbed by threats of a house-building slump. Electricians' Union officials said their men were all working and likely to swing over to defence work if any were freed from civilian tasks.

This slant was borne out by the N.E.S., which yesterday could feature such items as an emergency call from Vancouver for experienced steamfitters to work on the Columbia Cellulose enterprise near Prince Rupert.

LOW EBB

Whatever the carpenters were doing to saw off a living, it seemed established that home building was at a low ebb in the city.

Contractors were blaming the slump on the high cost of materials and labor plus Government action in raising down-payment requirements for new house construction.

Also fogging the view of would-be homebuilders was a Financial Post story which said decision of a number of life insurance companies to raise their mortgage rates from 5 to 5½ or even 6 per cent "may completely jeopardize the National Housing Act."

The act specifies borrowers may not obtain funds at higher than 4½ per cent. Hitherto the Government has supplied one quarter of the loan at 3 per cent, the lending institution the remainder at 5 per cent.

Thus loaning institutions bumping rates more than 5 per cent could no longer use N.H.A. machinery.

The survey made it evident Victoria might find itself short of labor—and tradesmen—if a major defence, or other project were suddenly organized here.

Of course there would be plenty of carpenters. Or would there?

The United States State Department was originally created as the "Department of Foreign Affairs" in 1789.

Board Hearing Pay Demands

A conciliation board yesterday began hearing wage increase and other demands by nine drivers and one mechanic, employed by Veteran Stages, 728 Herald.

The bus line employees, represented by the Street Railwaymen's Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) want a 26-cent-hourly, across-the-board increase.

They want one-half the costs of British Columbia Hospital Insurance and Medical Services' Association coverage paid by their employers.

Bus drivers at present are paid $1.10 hourly, and the mechanic, $1.19½-cents-per-hour.

Arts Society's Program Enjoyable

By GRAHAM STEED

The Arts Society program of music for piano, voice and flute at Victoria High School last night was of considerable interest. The artists who presented it are to be complimented on their efforts.

Nearly a quarter of an hour after the advertised starting time, Mr. Palmer launched into Beethoven's Sonata in F-Sharp Major, Op. 78.

He was wise to repeat the exposition. The [illegible] positions are never the worse for repetition, and he was even wiser to repeat the whole of the development and recapitulation.

He plunged into the second and last movement rather precipitately, but thoroughly enjoyed the sport which Beethoven makes in this brilliant rondo. There could have been more color in the early part of this sonata, but perhaps the effort of using it as a curtain-raiser cost him some freedom in the interpretation of the cantabile and legglers passages.

There were some fine moments in the C Minor Sonata (Beethoven's 32nd—a work contemporaneous with the Ninth Symphony and of great strength and ruggedness, presenting several points of similarity with the Ninth), but the opening maestoso could have had firmer handling, a firmness which Mr. Palmer brought out well in the fugata section.

BACK TO BACH

After Beethoven, we stepped back in the period of Bach; quite literally, for Mr. Crawford turned his Bach upon us. He played the two movements from the Suite in B Minor with skill, intelligent phrasing and without in any way detracting from their essential dance-like character.

CHARM AND SENSE

June Milburn brought charm and a good deal of sense to her vocal numbers. She is a very young artist to tackle four of the greatest of all the German lieder.

This reviewer took exception to her breaking a phrase occasionally, especially one gorgeous phrase in "Die Mainach," and to a certain weakness in tone below the G above middle C, but he was impressed by her determination to create the impressions of these great songs. She relaxed too soon after the last alleluia in "Die Junge Norre," which was a pity.

In the group of English songs there was a much better delivery, and both Mr. Shale's "Pedlar of Dreams" and Mr. Palmer's "Mirror" almost magnetized this hardboiled critic. I enjoyed the sport of "Love Went A-Riding," one of the finest modern English songs, with a devilish accompaniment.

Let me pay Miss du Val the compliment that Mr. Palmer ought not to have stood over her like a music teacher when she was busy with Hindesmith.

Board Postpones Eviction Meeting

A UNION Board of Health meeting scheduled for this morning has been postponed because City Council will meet all day on estimates.

The meeting was called to hear tenants of five substandard Johnson Street rooming houses. The board is planning to issue eviction orders.

Alderman Mrs. Margaret Christie, board chairman, will call another meeting as soon as possible.

Damage was reported at $300 last night by Saanich Police to a car driven by Mrs. Helen Liersch, 1973 Crescent Road, which went off East Saanich Road a distance of 150 feet onto a new road under construction at approximately 10 p.m.

No one was injured, police said.

London Market Less Regular

LONDON, April 25 (Reuters).—Hesitancy returned today to London Stock Ex. change, and price changes in domestic stocks were irregular.

Early-morning business gave firmness to Government funds and leading industrials, but the gains were generally lost in a later drop. They closed fractionally lower.

Industrial share movements were mostly to slightly-lower levels. Engineerings held firm.

Union Castle shipping was a weak future with a loss 4s 1d at 41s 6d.

Group profits showed a decline of £943,000 sterling at £1,579,000. The dividend

Uncle Wiggily Story - - - - - - - - - - - -

By Howard Garis

BOSUN IN A BOAT

Bosun, the jolly old sea dog, was so smart and clever about anything having to do with water, rafts, or boats that he knew, almost at once, what had happened to Uncle Wiggily.

"I can see it as plain as if I had been here at the time," barked Bosun to himself. "Avast and belay! Cap'n Wiggily came down here to look at his raft to see how she had stood the Winter. He hopped on board. He hopped around, looking at my merry-go-round, looking at the shooting gallery and, I would say, also looking at the lunchroom and the candy kitchen.

"Cap'n Uncle Wiggily didn't know that the ropes were almost worn through. His jumping here and there on the raft made it teeter and it shook itself loose from the shore. Shiver my rubber boots when I wear them, that's just what happened!

"The raft went adrift and took Cap'n Wiggily with it. The wind is blowing half a gale, or maybe a quarter of a gale. Anyhow, it must have been a good breeze for, shiver my eyelids, I can't see the raft anywhere out on Frog Pond. Maybe it has been blown out past Chestnut Tree Point. Anyhow, Cap'n Wiggily is alone on the drifting raft and I'm going to rescue him! Avast and belay! That's what I'm going to do!"

Of course, Bosun didn't know about Grandma Whackum, with Toodle and Noodle Flat Tail, being on board the raft with Uncle Wiggily. But, even if the jolly old sea dog had known that, it would have made no difference in his rescue plans. He ran up and down the shore, sniffing and snuffing. Suddenly there was a rustling in the bushes and a voice asked:

"What are you trying to smell, Bosun; a bone?"

"No," replied the old sea dog, "I am trying to smell a boat. Who are you?"

"I'm Foxie the Fox," was the answer.

Foxie the Fox, who was once an enemy of Uncle Wiggily's, but who was now the rabbit gentleman's friend, came out of the bushes, bringing with him his big tail that was almost as large as two dusting brushes.

"Why do you want a boat, Bosun, asked Foxie. Are you going fishing in Frog Pond?"

"No, Foxie," Bosun answered. "I want to get a boat and go look for Cap'n Wiggily. He is missing."

"Oh, dear me!" yapped Foxie, for he had a yapping voice like that of some dogs. "Don't tell me that Uncle Wiggily is in Frog Pond!"

"No, Foxie, Cap'n Wiggily isn't in Frog Pond, he is somewhere on the water, adrift aboard his raft. And I must rescue him. Do you know where I can find a boat and a pair of oars?"

"Uncle Pat Butter, the grocery store goat, used to keep a boat somewhere around here, Bosun," said Foxie. "I think the boat was hauled up on shore for the Winter. I think I remember where it is—down by that big rock. Let's take a look."

Bosun followed Foxie to the big rock. There, on shore, under a pile of leaves, was Uncle Butter's boat.

"Do you think he would care if I took it, Foxie?" the old sea dog asked.

"Of course he wouldn't," said Foxie. "Good old Pat Butter would want you to take his boat to rescue Uncle Wiggily. Pat would go with you if he were here. But since he isn't here and I am, I will go on the rescue expedition with you, Bosun."

"Good for you, Foxie!" said Bosun. "Shiver my necktie that's what I call helping. I guess this boat will leak, having been out of water all Winter. If you come with me you can bail out the water. Here's a tin can you can use. And here are the oars under the boat. Now we are all set and can go rescue Cap'n Wiggily."

Bosun shoved the boat from shore into Frog Pond. Then he got in with the oar. Foxies followed. Bosun began to row. Water leaked into the boat but Foxie bailed it out with the tin can. Soon the rescue expedition was well out in Frog Pond.

What happened next will be told tomorrow if the chocolate cake isn't too proud to speak to the molasses cookie when they sit next to each other watching a television picture.

Wealthy Suitor Promises Peggy Dow Can Have Marriage and Keep Career

HEARD IN HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 25 (INS).—All the way from Oklahoma City came a call from Walter Helmerich saying, "I love Peggy Dow and I want to marry her. Please don't say that she has to make a choice between her career and me—she can have both. I'm in love with her and it does not make any difference to me if she wants to go on acting."

Helmerich has plenty of money to spend. Peggy could, if she cares to, stop her promising career, but that doesn't enter into the picture now—she can have both Walter and her work.

Peggy has now been borrowed from Universal-International by Sam Goldwyn for "I Want You," the Farley Granger film. In return Sam gives Joan Evans to U-I. The deal, as I understand it, called for one picture a year, which Peggy will make for Goldwyn, and one picture a year which Joan will make for U-I.

BREAK

Lucky Kathryn Grayson gets Adrian to design her clothes in "Lovely to Look At." She and Howard Keel, a romantic pair who sing beautifully in "Show Boat," are to be teamed in "Lovely," for which Adrian is doing the designing.

I have already told you Marge and Gower Champion, those delightful dancers, also get a good break in "Lovely to Look At." They were also in "Show Boat" and this time they get even a better chance to parade their talents.

SPLITS WITH 20TH

When Paul Douglas gets back to Hollywood from Pittsburgh with his lovely Jan Sterling, he won't be hanging his hat up at 20th.

Before he took off for the East he and 20th terminated his term deal without bloodshed or rancor on either side. I hear that Paul turned down a couple of roles which led to his deciding to pick and choose his own.

No one can say whether he's to blame or 20th, but I'm sorry to see Paul leave a studio that makes such consistently good pictures.

RANDOM SNAPSHOTS

Sympathy goes to Virginia Keith and her husband, Manlio Ciani, famed painter, in the loss of their expected baby.

There are probably few people who remember that the ballad "Old Soldiers Never Die" was used as background music to "This Above All," a picture Tyrone Power and Joan Fontaine made at 20th ten years ago.

Maurice Chevalier and a party of six planed to London to catch Judy Garland at the Palladium. Now the $64 question is—did he fly on to Canada to try to get into the United States?

Escorting Barbara Whiting, Dan Dailey applauded Ray Bolger's dances in "Where's Charlie?" and laughed at his jokes. Dan is getting around these evenings. At Sardi's he gave with a few solid beats on the drums with Nappy Lamare and his Dixieland Band.

"Samson" Stupendous Spectacle

CITY MOVIES

By RON BAIRD

After seeing SAMSON AND DELILAH (Paramount), one wonders what the fate of supercolossal movies will be after Cecil B. DeMille retires from the sound stages of Hollywood.

This Technicolor adaptation of the Bible story is in the same DeMille tradition as "The Ten Commandments," "Sign of the Cross," "The Crusades," and others of similar gigantic stature.

It's big, lavish and colorful—light on acting talent but heavy on spectacle and, in its most awe-inspiring scenes, there's no other word to describe it but the Hollywood-coined adjective supercolossal.

Producer-director DeMille has spared nothing to give this age-old story the full treatment.

GOOD CASTING

His casting of the principal roles couldn't have been better.—Victor Mature (Samson), Hedy Lamarr (Delilah), George Sanders (The Saran), Henry Wilcoxon (Ahtur) and Angela Lansbury (Semadar), who expires shortly after the picture begins after being pinned to a wall with a javelin, are all capable in their roles.

But nobody bothers much about the cast of a DeMille picture. It's the action that counts and there's action here by the carload.

Samson dispatches a lion with his bare hands, smites about 100 or more Philistines with the jawbone of an ass and smashes up a few furnishings just to get things livened up before the picture is half-way through.

FINISHED OFF

The final scene packs everything into one big wallop as Samson pulls down the pillars of the temple and finishes off a few thousand Hollywood extras in a matter of a couple of minutes. How DeMille does this sort of thing is his secret, and I doubt if any other movie producer could do as well.

This is a fine picture if you're looking for something staggering. It's sheer spectacle with a capital S.

Lots of Color Marks Opening of Bonspiel

Colorful ceremonies marked opening of fifth annual Nanaimo Curling Club Bonspiel at new curling rink on Tuesday. Most nattily-attired outfit was this Plaza Hotel team, which won its opening match and didn't need to look so serious. Left to right: Al Phillips, Joe Clovis, Harry Howard and Reg Murphy.

Piper Norman Bremner gave proper Scottish flavor to proceedings with big "bla" on pipes to set roarin' game in motion.

Two happy rinks were Malaspina Hotel team, skippered by Russ Annett, and Henry James four of Nanaimo. Left to right, they are: James, Vern Strubble, Helen Wilson, Annett, Margaret Fuller, Bill Cosgrove and Erni Lasko.

Rookie Hurler Gives Only Two Blows As St. Louis Cards Blank Pirates, 4-0

By Canadian Press

St. Louis Cardinals blanked Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 in a National League game last night while Boston Braves and Cincinnati Reds squeezed through to one-run victories in the same major baseball circuit.

Rookie Tom Poholsky, aided by good defensive work, hurled the Cards to their triumph in St. Louis, giving up only two hits and two walks. Enos Slaughter homered in the sixth for one of the Redbird tallies.

Sam Jethroe's ninth inning homer with one on and two out gave the Braves a 6-5 victory over Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets Field. Brooklyn had taken a 5-4 lead in the eighth when Jackie Robinson, apparently caught in a rundown, was allowed to score from third after the umpires had ruled interference on the part of Walker Cooper, Boston catcher.

HOMER BEATS CUBS

Ted Kluszewski, who barely has been hitting his weight, clubbed out a two-run homer in the eighth inning to give Cincinnati its second victory of the season, a 4-3 decision over Chicago Cubs at Cincinnati.

Six of the seven runs scored in the game came as the direct result of home runs. The Reds wound up with three homers, two triples and a double and yet barely staggered in.

Ewell Blackwell got credit for his first triumph of the season after coming in as a relief hurler.

New York Giants and Philadelphia Athletics, current patsies of the majors, dropped their seventh and sixth straight games respectively in daytime games.

PHILS BEAT GIANTS

The Giants collected eight hits to only five Philadelphia Phils but were beaten 2-1 in a National League game at Philadelphia, as they left runners stranded on the basepaths all day. In addition, they coaxed six passes off Ken Heintzelman, the winner, while loser Larry Jansen did not allow a walk.

The Athletics were shut out again by New York Yankees, 4-0.

A dozen Athletics reached base against Frank Shea but 10 were left stranded as they failed to score for the second straight day. Two double plays erased the other Philadelphia runners in the American League game at New York.

Chicago White Sox divided a doubleheader with St. Louis Browns in Chicago, taking the opener, 8-6, and dropping the nightcap, 7-4. The defeat in the second tilt was the first suffered by the White Sox at the hands of the Browns in 13 meetings—including nine exhibition games—this year.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

A four-game look at the 1951 Victoria Athletics is probably not enough to form any definite conclusions, but it would appear that the future of manager Dick Barrett's club lies with a pitching staff which was rated as the strong point in pre-season talk.

On paper, a Class "B" mound corps which includes the likes of John Marshall, Jim Propst, Jim Hedgecock, Ron Smith and Barrett looks like money in the bank, particularly when it is backed up by promising material sent down by the Portland Beavers. However, baseball games aren't won on paper and at the present time, pitching must be considered one of Barrett's main problems.

Smith, who had a great season in the strong California Winter League, seems set for a good showing. Not at all spectacular, the veteran righthander usually pitches his game and can be counted on for steady work. Hedgecock appears in fine condition and should be better than a .500 worker, while Propst indicated in his first outing that he has recovered the form which made him a W.I.L. all-star in 1949 with a 17-6 record.

That's as far as it goes at the moment with the hopes of the A's resting on what Marshall and Barrett will contribute, what help may yet come from Portland and the possibility that one or more of the second-string pitchers may develop into a winner.

Neither Marshall nor Barrett is yet in condition to give his best. The former, who has the equipment to be a 20-game winner every season in the W.I.L., is pounds overweight and needs at least two weeks of solid work before he is likely to be ready. Barrett, who could be invaluable in saving games in the late innings with his pitching know-how and great curve, has done no training and can't be counted on for another three weeks. This is a body blow to the A's, expecting to get the benefit of Barrett's pitching when they signed him as manager.

It could be that Lefty Bill Paine, who looked promising in training camp and who did well enough in his first start at Salem Tuesday, may develop into a winner and there is a chance that Portland will option John Tierney and, perhaps, Larry Ward. There is also the possibility that weaknesses may crop up at other positions but the ultimate showing of the A's this season is likely to rest with Marshall and his manager.

Random Harvest

Junior Krug, a stubborn holdout this Spring, showed up at Salem and is willing to sign with the A's. However, with Hal Jackson doing well at first base and Dick Bartle ready to join the club within a week or ten days, Krug is surplus material at the moment. He will probably be sold or traded . . . Catcher Lilio Marcucci was born in Bozzano, Italy, but has lived most of his life in San Francisco . . . Whether or not he will hit W.I.L. pitching remains to be seen, but Jackson is a Fancy Dan around first base who is likely to make Victoria fans quit pining for Vic Buccola. Jackson does the split even better than George Vico, the one-time Salem baseman who plays for Seattle Rainiers . . . Victoria's new uniforms finally showed up at Salem, but the A's were doing better in their old ones . . . Joe Mishasek, the righthanded knuckleballer who tried a comeback with the A's last season and was turned down after turning up at Santa Rosa this Spring, has joined the Salem club. It would be almost too much if he should make it three in a row tonight . . . Adding an ironic twist to Aldon's Wilkie's fine pitching this season is the fact that George Wilkinson, Victoria trainer, is the man who cured Wilkie's sacroiliac condition, making it possible for the veteran southpaw to regain some of his old-time form . . . Bobby Reynolds, the cocky, 17-year-old Spokane shortstop, fresh out of high school, proved to be popular with his home-town fans, who gave the lithe colored boy a big hand for every play . . . After getting four hits in five attempts in the first Spokane game, Edo Vanni went hitless for 11 trips and then was thrown out trying to stretch a hit into a triple . . . If Milton "Red" Eiler can be taken as an example, the umpiring in the W.I.L. should improve this season. The little newcomer, up from the Longhorn League, handled himself well in the Spokane series and showed some of the hustle too often lacking last season from the men in blue . . . The Spokane Indians do not shape up as pennant material. Alan Strange has a fast club but he lacks extra-base punch and pitching depth and may run into infield problems if Kenny Richardson runs true to form and bogs down after mid-season and unless Reynolds and second baseman Jim Brown develop. The Indians may also have trouble with southpaws, most of their better hitters swinging from the first-base side of the plate . . . Judging from the respective starts of the Vancouver Capilanos and the A's, Penticton is as good a training base as Santa Rosa.

* * *

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: The A's to salvage the last Salem game tonight, Vancouver, Yakima and Tacoma to win the other W.I.L. games. Batting average to date: At bat 177, hits 130, percentage .734.

Tactics Next Topic At Colonist School

SUBJECT for the eighth lesson for players over 16 in The Colonist-sponsored soccer school will be tactics. This includes the kick-off, corner kick, free kick, penalty kick, indirect and direct kick.

The class will be held at Lower Beacon Hill at 7 p.m. with Charlie Jones in charge. Players under 16 will study the same subject at their class at Central Junior High on Saturday morning with Wallace Milligan as chief instructor.

Only two other classes remain in the progressive course. The ninth lesson will be devoted to a practice game, positional play and fault-finding and the final session to competition.

Nanaimo Spiel Reaches Eights

The Nanaimo Curling Club's fifth annual bonspiel approached the interesting stages at the close of play last night.

By virtue of victories during the day Malaspina Hotel, Nanaimo; Horton, Nanaimo; St. Helen's, Vancouver, and Lanagan, Nanaimo, entered the quarter-finals for the Grand Challenge.

Silverthorne of Nanaimo entered the quarter-finals in the second event for the Malaspina Trophy by defeating Axford of Nanaimo 10-4. Victoria's Zabel rink meets Watson of Nanaimo today and the winner will move into the quarter-finals.

Hoare of Vancouver remained undefeated in the Grand Challenge and Malaspina Trophy events and is scheduled to tackle the Plaza Hotel in the second event today.

The highlight of the day's play was the seven-end by Lanagan's rink.

Clippers Gain Tie

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 25 (CP).—Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds and Nanaimo Clippers played to a 2-2 tie tonight before 1,571 fans at the Memorial Gardens.

The game was the opening contest of a best-of-three exhibition series between the two teams. The second game is set for Thursday night and the third for Saturday night.

Regina Pats Square Puck Round

WINNIPEG, April 25 (CP).—Eddie Litzenberger's goal at 1:47 in overtime tonight gave Regina Pats a 4-3 victory over Winnipeg Monarchs and evened their Western Junior hockey final series at three games apiece, with one game tied. Eighth game is here Saturday night.

About 5,000 fans were on hand to see Litzenberger's goal climax a brilliant comeback by the Pats, who, at one time, were down 3-0. The winning goal came as Litzenberger stepped from the penalty box. He raced to the Monarch blue line in time to take Billy Papp's rink-wide pass, cut in on the Winnipeg goal and drew Goalie Don Collins out to score.

Litzenberger was leading marksman for Pats, banging home two goals. Tony Schneider and Bryan McDonald got the others. Bruce Bell, Gerry James and Dave Trainor scored for Winnipeg.

Collins stopped 31 shots over the route, while Bob Tyler in Regina net turned aside 28. Loose defensive work paved the way for Regina's two third-period goals.

SUMMARY

First period: 1, Winnipeg, James (Hart, Parke), 4:46. Penalties: O. Cowan, L. Mitchell.

Second period: 2, Winnipeg, Bell (L. Mitchell, Burega), 2:34; 3, Winnipeg, Trainor 4:39; 4, Regina, Schneider (Smith, Edmundson), 10:00. Penalties: Reeve, Riley, Smith, Grosinsky, B. Mitchell.

Third period: 5, Regina, Litzenberger, 16:21; 6, Regina, McDonald (Papp), 18:02. Penalties: King, Novak, Edmundson, Litzenberger.

Overtime period: 7, Regina, Litzenberger (Papp), 1:47. Penalties: Riley, Yarnton.

Only Five Days Remain For Trophy Nominations

Only five days remain in which to send in your nomination for the Sid Thomas Memorial Trophy and win two season tickets to home games of Victoria Athletics that will go to the writer of the best letter.

DOUG FLETCHER

Only three persons have been nominated so far this year. They are Norma Stewart, Arnold Ferguson and Doug Fletcher. Have you someone else in mind that you think worthy of the award?

Fletcher was nominated by James Barr of 271 Beechwood, who writes, "Through the efforts of Doug during the past five or six years, lacrosse has staged a successful comeback in Victoria. I do not believe we would have the Shamrocks if it were not for Doug, ably assisted by Ed Popham and Charlie Thomas.

"Doug does not confine his work to the seniors. He takes the youngsters almost as Boon as they are able to walk and organizes them into teams. He does not rest through the Winter but carries right on from lacrosse to hockey.

"To train the child's body in the ways of sport today is tantamount to training the child's mind in the ways of a successful and desirable citizen of tomorrow."

Fish and Game Licence Boost Recommended

VANCOUVER, April 25 (CP).—Fish and game licences will be substantially increased if preliminary recommendations of the fish and game council are approved.

The council recommended resident ordinary firearms licence be increased from $3 to $4; resident big game from $6 to $7; deer tags from 25c to $1; big game tags from $1 to $2; alien and non-resident Canadian licence to remain the same; resident angling from $1 to $2; non-resident Canadian angling from $3.50 to $5; alien from $7 to $10.

The sportsmen's recommendations must be approved at a meeting scheduled for here of the ten game zones. At the meeting will be guides, trappers, farmers and ranchers.

Game Commissioner James Cunningham, commenting on the recommendations, said the $3 regular firearms licence could stand a bigger boost.

Many of the delegates favored a $5 ordinary firearms licence.

Hitting, Pitching Cost A's 6-2 Loss

HOW THEY STAND

	W.	L.	Pct.
Vancouver	9	0	1.000
Yakima	8	1	.800
Salem	3	1	.500
VICTORIA	3	4	.429
Spokane	2	4	.333
Tacoma	3	6	.333
Tri-City	2	5	.167
Wenatchee	1	5	.167

Victoria Athletics continued to have hitting and pitching troubles at Salem last night and dropped their second straight game to the rebuilt Senators, this time by a 6-2 count.

The loss, harder to take because it was the result of the fine pitching of Aldon Wilkie, the veteran southpaw who toiled without noticeable success for the A's last season, dropped the Victoria club two games below the .500 pace they hope to attain on their first road trip of the young W.I.L. season. The Senators moved into a second-place tie with Yakima.

Wilkie was never in serious danger as he limited the right-handed-hitting A's to four hits and got a third strike past seven of them. He lost his shutout only because third-baseman Glen Tuckett made a miscue in the second inning to give the losers both of their runs.

MARSHALL WILD

On the other hand, John Marshall, who asked for the assignment, beat himself in a performance which showed that reports he is not yet in condition were all too true. The big righthander, much bigger this season than last, gave up only three hits but he walked ten batsmen, hit another and uncorked a wild pitch in his six-inning stint in which he gave up five Salem runs.

The Solons took the lead in the first inning, scoring twice without a base hit as Marshall walked lead-off hitter Ritchie Myers, hit manager Hugh Luby with a pitched ball and wild-pitched the runners into scoring position. They tallied on infield outs.

Two more bases on balls gave the Senators what proved to be the winning run in the third and they scored their last two runs off Marshall in the sixth when Glenn Stetter doubled after the Victoria pitcher had walked Luby and Dick Faber with two out.

Stetter, long a Victoria nemesis, started in where he left off last season by batting in four runs and scoring a fifth.

RON SMITH TONIGHT

Ron Smith is likely to get the nod tonight in the series finale. The A's then move over to Tri-City tomorrow for four games before opening at home against Spokane Indians on Monday. Jim Hedgecock, Jim Propst, Bill Paine and perhaps, Marshall will probably work the series against the Braves with Smith likely to start the home opener if Manager Dick Barrett's pitching rotation doesn't run into more of the control trouble which has been an unpleasant feature in the first six games.

After Marshall walked ten and reliefer Bill Osborn added two more bases on balls last night, it added up to 58 bases on balls for Victoria pitchers in ten games. With the free-swinging batting order having trouble with "soft" pitching, the A's could be worse off than they are.

CAPILANOS WIN

Vancouver Capilanos took sole possession of first place last night by scoring their sixth straight triumph, pushing over seven runs in the last two innings to down Spokane Indians, 8-6. The losers were coasting along with a 5-1 lead when the roof fell in.

Yakima Bears dropped their share of the lead when they lost an 11-2 decision to Wenatchee Chiefs. The Chiefs backed Dave Dahle's seven-hit hurling with a 16-hit attack for their first victory.

Tacoma Tigers unlimbered an 18-hit assault to hand Tri-City Braves their fourth straight defeat, 9-7. The Braves scored all their runs in the fourth inning.

Nanaimo Lacks Imports First Season in League

Nanaimo Native Sons will have to follow the example of Victoria and play their first season in the Inter-City Lacrosse League with home talent.

The Shamrocks played their first season last year with three players who had previous experience in the circuit but the trio learned their lacrosse in Victoria.

Nanaimo's efforts to build a strong contender by importing stars received a double setback this week. Officials of the Nanaimo team yesterday confirmed an Eastern report that former St. Catherines stars Nip O'Hearn and Gerry Fitzgerald will not be playing for the Sons this year. Fitzgerald has signed with Peterborough in the Ontario Lacrosse Association and O'Hearn is being married on May 5 in the East and will not be able to establish Nanaimo residence before the Inter-City League's May 1 deadline.

TOO LATE

Earlier, league officials reported that Nanaimo will not be able to use goalie Stan Josephs of North Shore Indians, or Harry Buchanan and Lyle Scott, Burrard stars last year. The trio failed to file transfer forms before the April 15 deadline.

Only player to transfer to Nanaimo before the deadline was Gordie Nickle, who played for Indians last season. Coach Lloyd Steele is confident of a good team, however, and reports 30 players turning out to practices.

New Westminster, Vancouver and North Shore are all finding it difficult to get players to attend workouts regularly, and all three have a goaling problem. Missing from New Westminster practices are Reo Jerome and Sid Martin, who are both reported to be by-passing lacrosse for softball this year. Also on the indefinite list are Bobby Bremner and Mike Munro.

SEEK GOALIE

Indians are still looking for a goalie to replace Josephs, who has failed to turn out, and will probably lose Johnny McKay, who is taking a new job at Port Alberni. Roy Burton, rookie of the year in 1949, has come out of retirement and may be converted into a defenceman.

New Westminster and Vancouver are waging a tug-of-war for the services of goalie Walt Lee, who wants to transfer to the Commandos. Vancouver wants him to alternate with Jack Green, who reversed an earlier decision to retire, while Commandos want him to share duties with Gordy Pogue.

Properly-Financed Plan For Wildlife Possible

VANCOUVER, April 25 (CP).—Conservation of fish and game in British Columbia now is on a firm basis that should enable the Game Commission to map out a long-range program that can be properly financed, Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said today.

He was speaking at the opening session of the four-day provincial game convention, sponsored by the B.C. Game Commission, paid high tribute to fish and game associations and the commission for their aid in putting a fixed budget for fish and game work.

"Seventy-five per cent of the revenues from fish and game, including fines, has been set aside for the use of the Game Commission," he said. "Estimated revenue is $802,000, and $615,000 will go into the fish and game budget plus the predatory animal fund which amounts to $143,000.

"This, along with $22,000 collected in fines last year, means that nearly the whole amount of the fish and game revenue will be put back into your hands."

SAYS FINES TOO LOW

Wismer said that he believed that present fines meted out to persons who break game laws are not high enough.

"I think the magistrates should be more severe in some cases where there has been deliberate depredation of our game life," he said. "I believe in such cases the fines should be raised."

Wismer complimented the commission on its conservation policy and said it was one of the finest anywhere in the world.

He said a long-range program properly financed with a budget, instead of relying on the vagaries of the provincial budget, was what was needed for the department to carry on its work.

The remaining teams in the league—Strathcona Cafe, Watson's Men's Wear, Orange Crush, and Gorge Hotel—will compete in a consolation round.

Golf--- Here's How

By SAM SNEAD

Golf's Greatest Player Teacher

Here's a player lined up for a long shot with wood. Notice that the ball is played off the left heel and this is as it should be. The ball is positioned forward of centre with long woods and long irons because the longest flight is obtained if the impact between clubface and ball occurs just after the clubhead has passed the lowest point of the swing and has started to rise. With a straight faced No. 1 wood the ball must be teed up to get the correct height in flight to yield the most yardage. The ball is moved back perhaps an inch nearer centre for a No. 2 wood, the brassie, because the brassie is more lofted than the driver. And by so positioning the ball the clubhead contacts it just as the clubhead passes the low point in the swing and starts up. This gives the longest controlled flight. And for the same reason the ball is positioned another inch nearer centre for the spoon, your No. 3 club.

Impending English Soccer Cup Final Main Event of Britain's Sport Year

LONDON, April 25 (Reuters)—If they built a stadium to hold 1,000,000 spectators they'd have no trouble filling it at least once during Britain's sports year—for the final of the English Soccer Cup.

For every one of the 100,000 who'll jam Wembley Stadium Saturday to see Newcastle United meet Blackpool in the most glamorized game of the soccer season, at least ten more fans would gladly give eyeteeth to get inside.

They might not see a great game; many Cup finals of the past have been disappointing as exhibitions of soccer. But they'd see the clash of two fighting football clubs who have emerged the only unbeaten outfits of the 653 amateur and professional squads that set foot on the Wembley turf last August.

This year's contest shapes up as a one-sided display with Blackpool figuring as hot form favorites to whip the Coaltown team easily.

Since the Lancashire lads won their Cup semi-final last month they have racked up seven wins in ten starts in league contests while over the same period Newcastle has won only eight and lost four. Newcastle's once-potent forward line has failed to score a single goal in its last five home games.

BOOKIES CAUTIOUS

But bookies, remembering other Cup final upsets, are cagily laying odds ranging only as high as 5 to 4 against Newcastle to trim the tangerine-and-white clad team from Blackpool.

Blackpool are more colorful of the two squads with their demon forward combination of centre Stan Mortensen and right wing Stanley (Wizard of Dribble) Matthews, perhaps the greatest ball control player soccer has ever produced.

This pair alone with Matthews' beautifully timed cross-[illegible] onto Mortensen's educated toes in the goalmouth and then booming into the net are dangerous enough to win most games all by themselves.

They will be backed up by a strong defensive team that has allowed only four goals in seven Cup ties and replays this season while the forwards were banging in 12—five by Mortensen.

ALL-STAR PERFORMER

Newcastle compiled a 16-7 record in seven Cup encounters [illegible] were led by centre forward Jackie Milburn, the Matthews and Mortensen a regular performer on England's all star international squad.

Milburn's dipsydoodle playmaking downfield will be the chief weapon the slumping Newcastle team can pit against Blackpool. If the little centre is hot Saturday, and can set his other forwards alight the Coal [illegible] will be [illegible] Cup [illegible] 1910, 1924 and 1932, and lost four other finals—in 1905, 1906, 1908 and 1911.

Blackpool has reached the final once, losing 4-2 to Manchester United three years ago.

The competition was started in 1872 and with the exception of wartime interruptions has highlighted English soccer every year since.

Holder Leads P.C.L. Batting

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25 (AP)—Veteran Brooks Holder, Portland outfielder, led Pacific Coast League regulars through games of last week with a batting average of .429. He played in 20 games.

Chuck Connors, Los Angeles first sacker, topped the circuit in runs batted in, with 29, and was deadlocked with Bill Jennings, Oakland shortstop, for home run honors, each having clouted eight.

Hollywood southpaw Art Schallock, with a record of four wins and no defeats, was the top league pitcher through last week's games.

He said the men—mostly Malayans or Indians—were promised high wages to work in the fields. He said several months later the men reported back to British ships with tales of beatings and little or no salaries.

"Their stories seem to jibe," said Fielding. "If they protested or asked for their money they said they were beaten and threatened with being turned over to the immigration authorities."

He said he had protested to the British Consul and immigration officials.

Long Tractor Freight Trek Across North Nearing Goal

[illegible], April 25 (CP) — A tractor freight trek across the frozen tundra on the west shores of Hudson Bay is nearing its [illegible]

Seven tractors are hauling [illegible] sleighs loaded with [illegible] The cargo will [illegible] mining property discovered last summer by a field party [illegible] in the Northwest Territories.

The copper-nickel concession is 100 miles inland from the Hudson Bay shore settlement of Tavani, 300 miles north of Churchill and 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg.

From Tavani the cargo will be flown piecemeal to the site of the mining property discovered last summer by a field party.

The freight swing [illegible] train is operated by the Thomas Lamb Transportation Company of The Pas. It left Churchill March 16 and the round trip was expected to be completed in six weeks before the Spring breakup softened coastal ice.

CAN'T COME BACK

Unexpected difficulties now have washed out the prospect of a return trip before Autumn but barring a catastrophe the train will get its load to Tavani before the breakup.

Progress of the freight swing was reported here by Thomas Lamb, who flew from Churchill to pick up a crankcase to repair one of the tractors that hit a boulder hidden by snow.

One of the huge tractors already has been left behind following a similar accident. It was parked on a hilltop out of reach of stream [illegible] to be picked up at a future date.

From the outset the train moving slowly over the boulder strewn barrens, has been pounded by blizzards and heavy [illegible] fogs. The three "cats" [illegible] service shuttle back and forth [illegible] ing as many sleighs as they can manage and then going back for others after runs of about ten miles.

Breaking snow ridges [illegible] and sometimes completely obliterates the treeless shoreline [illegible] as often ten to 20 feet wide, must be bridged.

Mr. Lamb, a famed Northern [illegible] has flown back [illegible] supply stops between Churchill and the swing.

The tractors average six miles an hour when the going is good and are on the move round the clock with crews working in six hour shifts. The sleighs average 24 feet in length and are eight to ten feet wide. Each has a capacity of 20 tons.

The trek may revolutionize freighting in the area. Until now it has been done by coastal steamers in the brief Summer season and by air-rail.

The census of 1181 showed Ontario then had nearly twice as many people on farms as in urban districts.

Sergeant Finds Army Life Has Compensations

—Colonist Photo by Jim Ryan.

This army sergeant clearly remembers part women played in World War. Then they were discharged and army felt loss. Now Department of National Defence wants them back in all three services and reserves. Sgt. C. B. Williamson, A. & T. staff of No. 8 A.A.O.R. (Reserve) at Bay Street Armoury, will be at work early this morning to interview and register women interested in anti-aircraft training. "This is one job I am looking forward to," he said.

Services to Begin Recruiting Women

Women are going back into Canada's armed forces with new uniforms, nylon stockings, and equal status with the men.

Defence Minister Brooks Claxton, following months of speculation, told the House of Commons in Ottawa the regular R.C.A.F. and the reserve forces of the Navy, Army and Air Force would start recruiting women members this Summer.

The announcement said married women would not be accepted, and indications were a possible limit of 5,000 women would be enlisted by the three services.

During the war the figure for the three services was nearly 48,000.

The news found Victoria with a waiting list of 60 women applicants for the Air Force, Flt.-Lieut. Hugh Campbell, recruiting officer, said last night.

AWAIT WORD

Signal that recruiting was to begin was being awaited from the Department of National Defence at Ottawa.

Victoria's reserve anti-aircraft units also announced they would begin recruiting women for service as radar and radio operators, anti-aircraft plotters, switchboard operators and orderly room clerks.

The 8th Anti-Aircraft Operations Room, Bay Street Armoury, was to begin taking registrations from women applicants immediately.

Defence Minister Claxton indicated there were many jobs women could handle, especially in the field of electronics. They included those of communication operators, special equipment technicians, filter centre operators, and a new group of jobs related to radar.

SPECIAL TRAINING

The report indicated the women would get special training and would be placed in a unit or formation where they would get parallel recognition alongside men of equal rank.

Many of the functions of the operations room are particularly suited for women, the 8th Anti-Aircraft statement pointed out. During the World War this hush-hush branch of the service included many women on its staff who "demonstrated an outstanding record of efficiency," it said.

Both Air Force and anti-aircraft spokesmen were anticipating a good response to the recruiting program. The Air Force statement warned only a limited number of vacancies existed.

NEW STYLES

The women recruits can look forward to new-style uniforms.

An Army spokesman said the women's army uniform will have false pockets and a longer skirt of khaki serge.

The Air Force has designed a new uniform, also — embracing the best features of a tailored suit. It will have four buttons and lapels, but no belt. Hat will be of the wedge type.

Navy uniform was still at the designing stage and no details were available. But the Navy said it would be "different."

Pay in the Army for privates will be $79 a month; for privates first class, $90. Sergeants will get $119, and lieutenants, $195. Rates are equal in the other services for equivalent ranks.

Cue Taken From Armed Forces, Air Cadet Unit to Recruit Girls

MILITARY ACTIVITIES

By TREVOR COLLINS

The announcement by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton that women will be recruited for the armed services has given officers of the local Air Cadet Squadron a few ideas.

Just as soon as facilities can be made available, the squadron will start recruiting "Girl Cadettes," F.O. Walter Eaton, newly-appointed commanding officer of the unit, said last night. He succeeds Flt.-Lieut. W. J. Kenton who joined the permanent air force last month.

F.O. Eaton explained that the idea of having girls in the unit was not quite as astonishing as it sounded.

OTHER UNITS

"They already have them in the Vancouver and Powell River Air Cadet Squadrons," he explained.

Before recruiting actually gets under way, some women instructors will be needed.

"I would like to get in touch with former W.D. officers and senior N.C.O.'s to lay plans for the formation of the unit," he said.

P.O. Jack Southern, World War wireless airgunner, has taken over the post of equipment officer which was vacated by F.O. Eaton when he took over command of the unit.

NEW SQUADRON

He said there was a possibility a second Air Cadet Squadron might be formed soon in this area.

"I believe present plans are that it will be sponsored as a community project by a service club," he said.

The local squadron has more than doubled its strength during the past year and is now the largest in the province with an active roll of 120 cadets. It is sponsored by the Victoria Kinsmen Club.

EASE REQUIREMENTS

The Army has lowered the medical category and increased the age limit for men in the Reserve forces, Capt. Sidney Digby, administration and training officer of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, announced yesterday.

"We are now permitted to accept a limited number of overage and low medical category officers and other ranks," he said.

Men will now be accepted by the Army providing they haven't reached their 52nd birthday. Those now in uniform can be re-engaged providing they are under 55.

Capt. Digby said authorization had been received to recruit these men up to 25 per cent of the unit's strength. He stressed that experienced soldiers were wanted.

Bandsmen may enlist if they are not over 55.

TANK EXERCISE

A cloth model exercise on how to defeat tanks in modern warfare will be staged on the Armoury floor tonight, Capt. Sidney Digby of the Canadian Scottish Regiment said yesterday.

He expected about 80 reserve and active force officers to participate in the exercise, which will last about an hour. Army officers from headquarters will be in charge of the display.

On Saturday, members of the Canadian Scottish will leave on their first major outdoor training scheme this year.

The unit will travel in convoy to the Duncan area, spend the night there and carry out field training exercises Sunday.

HOW ABOUT NYLONS?

Although members of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) welcomed the announcement by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton that women will be recruited for the Reserve Army, they are skeptical about the effect on their unit.

The men all wear kilts.

Quebec City Tax Plans Stir Heated Outcry

QUEBEC, April 25 (CP).—Quebec city fathers, who decided to wipe out a big deficit with $1,500,000 in new taxes, found today an avalanche of protests and the threat of a general strike.

Landlords' and tenants' associations, employer groups and labor groups, car owners and taxi-drivers, business organizations, rooming house operators and theatre operators sent protests pouring into homes of bewildered aldermen and into City Hall.

City administrative committee last Friday gave first reading to the 1951-52 budget calling for expenditure of $8,720,650. Increased or new taxes were to balance the budget.

TENANTS' TAX

The taxes are: A tenants' tax of 2½ per cent on rent paid, less 25 per cent of the cost of heating; a garbage removal tax of $8 annually, compared with the present $6 for Upper Town and $4 for Lower Town; rise in taxi licence fees from $11.20 a year to $60; a $15-a-year water tax on car-owners; a rise in the municipal amusement tax on theatre tickets from 37 per cent of the provincial tax to a straight five cents charge on tickets less than $1 and ten cents on tickets $1 or more.

Second and final reading on the budget is scheduled for Friday, with the taxes, if approved, going into effect May 1.

Taxis paraded the streets, bearing slogans like "A Bas les Taxes" (Down With the Taxes) painted in white.

PHONES JANGLE

Aldermen complained their home phones hadn't stopped ringing since 6 a.m. following newspaper advertisements giving lists of aldermanic phone numbers.

One alderman said he would find out if legal recourse is possible against the advertisers for publishing the numbers—"We have enough troubles as it is."

A meeting organized by the Landlords' Association was scheduled for tonight. Delegates from all major associations in the city were invited to attend.

Jean-Marie Laplante, vice-president of the Federated Trades and Labor Council of Quebec (T.L.C.-A.F.L.), announced that members had resolved to organize a 24-hour strike protesting the taxes if these were given final assent by the City Council.

The Trades and Labor Council said it would consult officials of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor and locals of the Canadian Congress of Labor here to arrange a general strike.

Unions jointly have some 40,000 members in the city.

Joseph Parent, president of the Central Council of the C.C.C.L., said the union officials were to meet to discuss the move.

Theatre operators, who declared they would shut down if the city put through a proposed municipal amusement tax, placed tables on sidewalks outside theatre doors and patrons were invited to sign petitions.

Zealous Policeman Retires; 33,000 Tickets Last Year

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 25 (INS). — Sixty-year-old Springfield patrolman Christopher J. Aspall today was granted permission to retire June 1—and motorists cheered.

Aspall is the officer who holds a strictly unofficial world's record for the number of parking tickets he has handed out. His score last year was 33,000. His rate of delivery of the tickets on his good days has been estimated at one every 90 seconds.

Why did patrolman Aspall work so hard giving out tickets?

Was it a mean streak? Not at all, says Aspall—and his friends and associates support him.

"The city laws," he emphasized, "say that one hour parking is permitted. When the hour is up, and the car is still there, the law has been broken."

The parking ticket champion has tried to do his work not only conscientiously, but with a flair for the dramatic. On St. Patrick's Day he liked to chalk the tires of cars with green chalk.

T.C.A. Boosts Service From Here to Vancouver

Trans-Canada Airlines will offer an augmented Summer flight schedule between here and Vancouver effective Sunday.

Ten daily flights will operate from 6:30 a.m. to 11 p.m., on Pacific Standard Time.

Two extra flights will operate Fridays and Saturdays at 5:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. and an extra flight on Saturdays will leave here at 11:45 a.m. Provision has been made for further extra flights if travel warrants.

ADDITIONAL FLIGHT

An additional daily flight is to be operated on the Victoria-Seattle service. This offers a midday departure from here in addition to the three daily flights to Seattle at 8 a.m., 12:45 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Trans-continental service will also be stepped up on Sunday when a fourth daily flight between Vancouver and Montreal will go into effect.

Joint Services Hold Exercise

The naval white ensign is flying over joint headquarters at Jericho Beach in Vancouver for the first time since the end of the World War.

"Operation Seagreen," the R.C.A.F.'s coastal and shipping defence exercise which has been in progress since early in April, takes a joint service character with the participation of three R.C.N. ships this week.

The ensign indicates that the headquarters is operating on a fully joint basis.

Ash to Head Investigation Of Labor Act

Arthur Ash, M.L.A. for Saanich, has been named by order in council of the Provincial Cabinet to head the special legislative committee to investigate the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act.

ARTHUR ASH

Serving under him will be four other members: John D. McRae, Prince Rupert; B. M. McIntyre, MacKenzie; Allan McDonnell, Vancouver-Centre, and Arthur Turner, Vancouver-East. All but Mr. Turner are Coalitionists. Mr. Turner is a C.C.F. member.

The committee, named on the recommendation of Labor Minister John Cates, will meet with both labor and management representatives to consider applications for amendment to British Columbia's present Labor Act. The committee will report to the next session of the Legislature in 1952.

Labor Minister Cates has definitely promised the Act will be open for revision at that time.

Defence Order Passed in B.C.

The Provincial Cabinet has authorized municipal councils throughout the Province to set up their own civil defence committees.

The order in council, which came through yesterday, authorized spending of municipal funds for setting up of civil defence directors and acquisition of property for civil defence offices.

The order also provides authority for municipalities to remove any private building made dangerous by enemy action.

Insurance Plan Votes Watched By Labor Here

Victoria labor organizations will follow campaign plans announced in Vancouver to hold "watching brief" on the progress of the Province's hospital insurance scheme.

In Vancouver, a representative committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor, Trades and Labor Congress, and the Railway Unions, said M.L.A.'s in every British Columbia constituency would be interviewed on their stand on B.C.H.I.S., and their voting records on insurance changes publicized.

Those in difficulties because of these changes will have their cases placed before proper authorities by special committees in every British Columbia town and city.

Both T.L.C. and C.C.L. Victoria organizations will endorse the plan, spokesmen said.
